LEOPOLD'S CONFESSION OF FRANKS BOY MURDER

Today

One Good Reporter
S. D. Common Sense
The Keeper Was Eaten
Too Few Own Homes

Current Events

By Arthur Brisbane

A GOOD reporter is rare. James Creelman was one. Nelly Bly, Julian Ralph, Stanley of African fame, and Lord Macaulay were others

A GOOD reporter must see clearly, write simply, know men, and public affairs, inspire confidence, and know truth from falsehood.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger and other publications is to be congratulated. He has secured the services of Louis Seibold, one of the ablest of living reporters.

SOUTH DAKOTA'S government buys gasoline wholesale, retailing it to the public at 18 cents a gallon, including 2 cents tax. They call that paternalism and almost anarchy in Wall street, New York. But South Dakota calls it common sense.

THE LIGHTHOUSE on the little island of Sokotra in the Indian Ocean was dark and the waters most dangerous. Cannibals had eaten the lighthouse keepers when supplies failed. They could not supply the light. A ship reports that.

WHAT HAPPENED to that corner of the world would happen to this whole country if anything should destroy our public school system, the light of America.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE tells real estate men he wants to see this country a home-owning nation. That's better than Henry of Navarre's wish that every Frenchman should have a chicken cooking on the stove. La Poule Au Pot.

Frenchmen, seven millions of them, own the soil of France, thanks to the revolution.

That's what helped them to hold Verdun.

THE PEASANTS own Sweden. That enabled Charles the Twelfth to march with only 12,000 of them through Peter's great armies.

Too few own their homes and the land in this country.

LA FOLLETTE'S threat of a third party startles all politicians. Democrats want Senator Wheeler for vice-President. His strength would help any ticket.

BUT La Follette probably will be content to frighten the politicians and not actually run. If he ran he would elect a Democrat, or demonstrate overwhelming strength in Coolidge. He does not want to do either.

AFRICA IS growing cotton successfully, and Britain hopes to raise all her cotton "within the Empire." That need not worry our South that produces cotton, or the North that gambles in cotton.

BETTER METHODS, better cotton, labor-saving machinery for picking and handling, poison gas to discourage the boll weevil will protect American cotton growers.

FOUR MORE Japanese have committed hara-kiri, killing themselves by ripping open their abdomens, as a protest against American exclusion of Asiatics. It is distressing to have even four Japanese die, in this fashion, but it cannot in any way change the American resolution and determination as to Asiatic immigration.

In fact, it emphasizes that determination. For these cases of hara-kiri, so puzzling to the Western mind, emphasize the difference between the people of this country and those of Japan.

AND IT HAS been proved, a thousand times, that mixture of people, too much unlike, is bad from every point of view.

There are vast territories in Asia, even in Japan, only thinly populated. The resources of the soil have been by no means exhausted.

This country was settled by those now possessing and controlling it.

With every feeling of friendship for the Japanese and admiration for their powers and accomplishments, the people of America intend to keep their part of this continent NON-ASIATIC.

MADE LOVE, STEARNS ADMITS

Captain Says He Liked to Hold Mrs. Pennington's Gloved Hands; Denies Improprieties

Love-making, with himself and Mrs. P. M. Pennington, known also as Phyllis Allen, as principals, was admitted today by Captain Charles E. Stearns, under cross-examination by Daniel H. Coakley in the Coakley-Corcoran conspiracy trial in East Cambridge Court.

The former army captain did not remember any improprieties, however, although admitting that he liked to hold gloved hands.

"It was just a desire to have something that belonged to someone else," he said.

Letters passing between Captain Stearns, and his counsel, Henry F. Fuller, which Coakley declared, showed that Captain Stearns had erred in his testimony yesterday, were read in court today by Coakley.

The name of Herbert Parker, former Attorney-General for Massachusetts, occurred and recurred in these letters.

CORRECTS TESTIMONY

When Captain Stearns took the stand today he said he desired to make a correction in his testimony. He said that after thinking it over he remembered that State Officer Stokes, who went to Grand Rapids, Mich., to ask Stearns to testify, did tell him that he had been indicted in Middlesex county.

Coakley, who was cross-examining Stearns, asked how he happened to think of the correction. Stearns replied, "I went to the district attorney's office and talked with Mr. Reading. He called my attention to the fact that he thought I had made an erroneous statement in regard to Stokes' visit. I thought it over and then decided he was right.

Q.—Did the district attorney say to you that if I established the fact that you had been indicted it would ruin your testimony? A.—No.

Q.—Have you a letter from your attorney, Mr. Fuller, telling you about your indictment. A.—After Mr. Stokes' visit I received a letter from Henry F. Fuller advising me

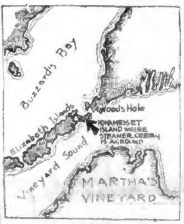
Hub Liner Ashore in Sound



Woods Hole, June 6.—The Merchants' and Miners' passenger steamship Cretan, Norfolk to Boston, is ashore off Nonamessett Island. Fourteen passengers are aboard. The Cretan wired the coastguard cutter Acushnet, now lying here with a captured rum-runner, and the Acushnet will make an attempt to get her off at high tide today. The Scott Wrecking Company is also sending a tug. Captain Ryan is in charge of the Cretan.

Passengers remained on board without fear.

It was thought that the Cretan's helmsman had mistaken the Woods Hole bell buoy for the Nobsca buoy marking the ship channel. The ledge where she struck is about 500 feet from shore. The lighthouse tender Anemone was standing by.

U. S. AND CANADA SIGN DOPE AND BOOZE PACT

Washington, June 6.—A treaty designed to suppress smuggling of liquor and narcotics across the Canadian boundary was signed here today by representatives of the American and Canadian governments.

The agreement, which has been under negotiation for several months was signed for the United States by Secretary Hughes and for Canada by Ernest La Pointe, the Canadian Minister of Justice.

Quebec, June 6.—Four hundred lumberjacks came to the help of bootleggers along the Maine border line in the ten-day gun battle between government agents and rum runners, it was learned today.

As a result of the fight, one Canadian bootlegger was arrested, and two American customs officers wounded.

BEATS MAN IN WIFE'S BOUDOIR

Woman in Pink Pajamas, Runs Through Streets and Calls Firemen

Bangor, Me., June 6.—Guy L. Bubar, official of the Great Northern Paper Company, returned home unexpectedly from a business trip.

The midnight visitor in the Bubar home was Alfred Goodell, a prominent resident of Houlton, Me. and married. That Goodell is alive is largely due to the fact that the fire and police departments, summoned by the pajama clad wife, who ran through the streets in her bare feet to a fire station, arrived in record time.

TEETH KNOCKED OUT

When the infuriated husband was dragged off the prostrate form of the visitor, the latter's front teeth were gone, his nose was split open, one eye was closed and an ear was hanging on by a shred. The chamber in which the encounter took place was wrecked.

The Bubar home is on State street in the most exclusive residential section of Bangor. Bubar was supposed to be in Millinocket on business. He found it possible to get home earlier than was expected.

Opening the front door of his home about midnight, he was greeted with sounds of revelry from his wife's room. The husband tip-toed to the second floor and burst into the room.

According to the husband's own story, his wife, clad in pink pajamas, was in the act of drinking a highball as he entered. Goodell, seated nearby, was enjoying a similar drink. Empty bottles littered the floor. Two bottles of whiskey, partially filled, stood near and was furnishing the liquid ammunition for the party.

The husband gave his wife a right

BOYS' PLAY CAUSED WRECK

Placed Stones on Track, Derailing B. & A. Express at Worcester

Worcester, June 6.—Two small boys, in a spirit of fun, caused the wreck of the Twilight Express on the Boston & Albany railroad, which cost three lives here, last Tuesday afternoon, according to the police.

The police obtained confessions from Robert Borm, eight years old, and Michael Ferlole six years old, both of whom live near where the wreck occurred that they placed stone on the rails.

The officers received their first tip from Mary Borm, nine years old, a sister of Robert, who told the detectives she was with the boys when they placed the stones on the rails.

Owing to the tender age of the lads, it is unlikely that they will be arrested.

After school hours on the day of the wreck, the two lads scrambled up the sides of the embankment of Deep Cut, about one mile from the Worcester station, and laid stones on the rails. Then they withdrew to watch the big Pacific type engines roll over them and pulverize them.

Just before the Twilight Express, New York bound from Boston, came into sight, they put larger stones than usual on the track. The train approached at high speed and the forward wheels of the engine, instead of grinding the obstruction, were lifted from the track and the engine rolled down the embankment into the ditch.

Two engineers and a fireman were killed.

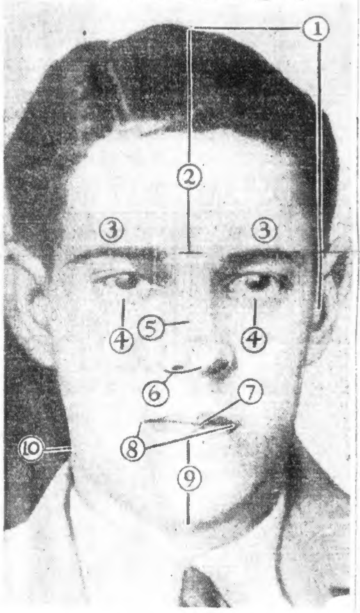
HOLD STUDENTS WHO ADVERTISED BY PLANE

New Haven, June 6.—Thomas A. Sweeney, Jr., Yale 1916 and whose home is in Washington, D. C., and Arthuh S. Lord a classmate, of Tarrytown, N. Y., were before City Attorney Whitaker today as chief figures in an inquiry as to the distribution on May 28 from an airplane of handbills. The handbills were used as propaganda in the political campaign in Yale University, which culminated in a mock presidential convention. Sweeney is charged with piloting an unregistered aircraft and operation without a pilot's license, and Lord with distributing hand bills from an airplane.

FREE "MOST STYLISH WOMAN SLAYER"

Chicago, June 6.—For the second time within a month a jury acquitted a woman charged with murder when Mrs. Belva Gaertner, called "the most stylish of women accused of slaying," was found not guilty of charges of killing Walter Law, an automobile salesman. The other woman freed was Mrs. Beulah Annan, called "the prettiest." Judge Lindsey intimated the State had failed to make out a clear case against the accused. The defence had placed no witnesses on the stand.

COMPOSITE PICTURE OF FRANKS SLAYERS



FACIAL CHARACTERISTICS ANALYZED

This is a composite photo of Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks:

1—The depth of brain as here indicated is unusual and shows brain capacity above average.

2—Length and slope of forehead very similar, so that both have the same reaction and are reflective.

3—Heavy eyebrows are a marked characteristic of a passionate and jealous nature.

4—The slightly bulging eyes tell that they have almost uncanny memories.

5—Executive ability is emphasized by the outline of the noses and their slight hump.

6—Distance from base of nose to tip explains in part the propensity to delve into so many things.

7—Mouth line straight, with slight upcurve at tips: an individual who apparently never had much cross his path.

8—Width of mouth small in relation to size of head, so the possessor is liable to be of a rather small and petty character.

9—Depth of chin almost identical, so that this trait is pretty well balanced in both.

10—the sweep and curve of both jaws are essentially feminine, so that the feminine quality of intuition doubtless played a considerable part in their actions.

SUMMER COLONY'S LIQUOR SEIZED

Manchester, June 6.—Two limousines filled with liquor valued at more than $3,000, believed to be intended for consumption by the Summer residents of this colony, were captured today on the beach at West Manchester, where the consignment had just been landed from motor boats. The drivers of the autos made off when they saw the officers approaching.

DESCRIBES DEATH OF VICTIM

Students Drove Auto With the Body Inside to Cafe After Crime Was Committed

Chicago, June 6.—The confession of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., made public by Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, after the grand jury indicted Leopold and Richard Loeb, both millionaires' sons, charging the kidnaping for ransom and murder of Robert Franks, May 21, was revealed as an unemotional, coldly matter of fact document.

Two indictments against the youths were returned by the Grand Jury today.

Both youths were ordered held without bail by Chief Justice Caverly of the Criminal Court.

The prisoners were indicted jointly. The murder indictment contained sixteen counts. Seventy witnesses gave testimony before the Grand Jury.

With the State preparing for an early trial—the prosecution may ask for trial on July 15—the next step in the prosecution will be the arraignment of the two youths probably Monday.

"The next problem was to get the victim and we were undecided until that day," said the confession, after it related the plans for capturing, slaying and disposing of a child in preparation for demanding $10,000 ransom.

"Then we decided to take the most likely looking subject that came our way. It just happened to be Robert Franks. Richard was acquainted with him and called him over and introduced him to me, and then asked Robert to go for a ride.

"Richard said, 'Come on in. I want to ask you about a tennis racquet.' I got in the car then and stepped on the gas and we proceeded. As we turned the corner Richard put one hand over his mouth and with his right hand beat him on the head.

"He did not succumb as readily as

SECRET INDICTMENTS IN FORBES CASE

Chicago, June 6.—Indictments in the second Federal Grand Jury investigation of the administration of the Veterans' Bureau under Charles R. Forbes, its former director, are reported to have been returned and immediately suppressed. John W. H. Crim, Assistant Attorney-General, who conducted the investigations, refused to divulge how many indictments or what number of persons had been named.

FRANKS SLAYERS CALMLY ATE IN CAFE WHILE BODY LAY IN AUTO

ELABORATE DETAILS OF CRIME PLANNED MONTHS BEFORE

we expected and Richard pulled him to the back seat and forced a club or gag into his mouth. I guess he was instantly suffocated."

In coldly formal language the confession related the disposal of the body after it had been stripped, Leopold stating that at first he feared there would be difficulty in forcing it into a culvert where it was found When the body stuck in the culvert Leopold said he forced further by pushing with his foot.

With the victim's body in their automobile covered with a robe, the slayers stopped at a restaurant and ate sandwiches before carrying out their plans for the burial and first demand of ransom.

Elaborate details had been worked out for the collection of the money which was to be placed in a safe deposit vault and kept for a year before being spent. The process of getting the money was decided on first, was decidedthen a means of notifying the father of the victim was arranged and finally the disposal of the body was planned, the confession said.

Extreme care had been taken that there might be no slip in putting the plan into effect, but neither of the youths had bargained on the discovery of the body the day after it had been hidden, the finding near the body of a pair of glasses later identified as Leopold's and the father of the slain boy forgetting in his excitement part of the direction for delivering the money.

Leopold said that through field glasses he and Loeb watched children at play on the afternoon of the kidnaping to determine who should be their victim. Two were under contemplation when the Franks boy happened along. The intention from the first had been to kill the victim, said the confession.

The confession follows:

LEOPOLD'S STORY

Q.—What is your name? A.—Nathan Leopold, Jr.

Q.—What school do you attend? A.—University of Chicago, Law school.

Q.—How old are you? A.—Nineteen.

Q.—Have you any brothers? A.—I have two brothers.

Q.—What are their names? A.—Foreman and Samuel. We have one other person living with us, a cousin, Adolph Ballenberg.

Q.—What is your father's name? A.—Nathan F. Leopold, Sr.

Q.—Now, Nathan, just go on in your own way and tell us the story from the beginning, tell us the whole thing.

A.—When we planned the commission of this thing it was about some time last November, I guess. At least we started the process to get some money, which was the most difficult problem. We had several plans, but finally we decided upon the one of having money thrown from a moving train after they had been given the point marked.

We finally decided that it was the factory of The Champion Manufacturing Company at 74th street, which is south of Hyde Park. The next problem was the system of identification to the father.

We originally planned a number of relays, in other words the man was to receive a special delivery letter, telling him that his son had been kidnaped and was being held for a ransom, that he was to secure $10,000, as follows: Eight thousand dollars in fifty dollar bills, $2,000 in twenty dollar bills. He was to get old unmarked bills whose numbers were not in sequence. These were to be placed in a box securely tied and sealed with sealing wax.

The reason for this, was to give the impression that it would be delivered personally by a messenger.

FOR VARIOUS 'PHONES

He was then to receive a phone call at about one or two o'clock in the afternoon requesting him to drop in a "Help-Keep-the-City-Clean" box, the location of which was to be definitely given. He was to find another note which would instruct him to proceed to a drug store at a public phone booth.

He was to be called at this phone booth; the drug store being over near the Illinois Central track giving only just enough time to rush out by the depot and board a through train, then allow enough time to notify the detectives or police as to where he was going.

In the train he was to proceed to the rear car, look in the box for telegram blanks for another letter. This letter instructed him to go to the rear platform of the car, face the east and look for the large red brick factory, adjacent to the tracks, which had a water tower.

He was to count two or three after that and then throw the box as far to the east as he could.

The next problem was getting the victim. This was left undecided, until the day we decided to find the most likely looking subject that came our way. This subject happened to be Robert Franks.

Richard was acquainted with Robert and asked him to come over to the car for a minute. The car was near 49th street and Ellis avenue.

Robert came over the car, was introduced to be, and asked if he didn't want to take a ride. Robert said "No." Richard said, "Well, come in a minute, I want to ask you about a certain tennis racquet"

After he came into the car, I stepped on the gas and proceeded South on Ellis avenue to Fiftieth street.

In the meantime Richard asked Robert if he minded if we took him around the block, to which Robert said, "No."

As soon as we turned the corner Richard placed his hand over Robert's mouth to stifle all the outcries and with his right hand beat him on the head several times with the chisel which was provided for the purpose.

BOY DIED INSTANTLY

The boy didn't succumb as rapidly as we had expected, so Richard pulled him into the back seat, then forced a club into his mouth.

Apparently the boy died instantly of suffocation. We then drove along the road that reaches Gary. We stopped to buy a couple of sandwiches.

Q.—Where? A.—Out at 132nd street. We covered the body with an automobile robe, which we had brought along for that purpose.

After we had the sandwiches we drove up and down on this road, then we proceeded along the path which leads out toward Hegewich.

We had previously removed the shoes, socks and the trousers off the boy.

Having arrived at our destination we placed the body in the robe and carried it to the culvert where it was found.

LOSES HIS GLASSES

We gathered up the clothes, placed them in the robe at apparently which point my glasses fell from my pocket. We carried the robe containing the clothes back to the auto, a distance of some 300 yards. The socks apparently dropped from the bundle.

We then proceeded north to 103d and Ingleside avenue from where I telephoned my folks that I would be a trifle late in arriving home and then drove to 147th and Woodlawn and from there I telephoned to Franks' home.

I spoke to Mrs. Franks and told her that my name was George Johnson and told her that her boy had been kidnaped.

We then drove to Fifty-fifth street, where I mailed the special delivery letter which had been completed, excepting for the address, which I put on later.

After taking home an uncle I returned to my home and after my father had returned, Richard and I proceeded to his home where we burned the remaining clothes.

We then washed the blood from the auto. Then we parked the auto near my home and the next day at 2 o'clock, Central time, 3 o'clock Chicago time, we went down to the Illinois Central at 12th street, and here Richard bought a ticket to Michigan City on the 3 o'clock train and deposited the letter in the telegram blank box.

Meantime we called Franks' home and I told Mr. Franks to go immediately to the drug store at No. 1464 East 63rd street and to wait at the public phone booth for a telephone call. I told him a yellow cab would be at his door to take him.

I repeated the number twice and he asked if he could not have a little more time, but I told him he could not, that it must be done immediately.

About the time I was phoning Richard returned from the train and we started out South intending to call at the Drug Store at 67th and Stoney Island avenue.

We chanced to see a newspaper laying on the stand and we deliberated a few moments, planning what to do and then thought that the game was up; but I, however, decided that it could do no harm to call the Drug Store, and this I did and was told that no Mr. Franks was in the building.

RETURN DEATH CAR

We then called at 68th and Stoney Island, another Drug Store.

We got the same reply and then gave it up as a bad job and returned the car to the place where it had been rented.

Our original plan was to put the letter to Mr. Franks in the "Help-Keep-The-City-Clean" box at Vincennes and Pershing road, but we had difficulty in making the envelope stick to the cover of the box as we intended to, and hence decided to eliminate this relay.

Q.—Did Sven Englund help you with cleaning the blood off of the car? A.—I believe Englund noticed us and came out to help us and Richard told him it was merely some red wine which had been spilled.

Q.—Who did the cleaning up? A.—Dick did and I helped him.

Q.—In your original plan last November did you have any one in particular in mind to be the victim? A.—Nobody in particular.

Q.—When did you consider the Franks boy? A.—We never figured one way or the other.

Q.—At that time were you watching some one else also? A.—We had been cruising around several groups of boys.

Q.—You had been doing that from three to five o'clock. A.—Yes.

Q.—Had you done that any time prior to that day. A.—No.

Q.—What time did you meet Richard Loeb? A.—Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—Out to the University.

Q.—What did you do? A.—We rented a Willys-Knight under the name of N. D. Ballard.

Q.—Did you ever rent a car before? A.—Yes.

Q.—Under what name? A.—N. D. Ballard.

Q.—They rent Willys-Knight's and Fords? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you remember whom you talked with while renting the car? A.—I don't remember, there were one or two men.

MOVED FROM HOTEL

Q.—Did you require any identification? A.—Yes I told them I registered at the Morrison Hotel and left a suitcase and received mail there. When we went to get mail the suitcase had been taken. Then we moved to the Oakwood and Grand Hotel.

Q.—Did you get your suitcase from the Morrison? A.—No.

Q.—Did you register at the Morrison under the name of N. D. Ballard? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have anything in it of any value? A.—Some library books, I believe.

Q.—Did you ever receive any mail at the Hotel addressed to Ballard? A.—I stopped there a half dozen times, but never did get any mail, Richard addressed several letters to us, but we never received them.

Q.—Were they returned to you? A.—No.

Q.—Did you open a bank account? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where? A.—The Hyde Park State Bank for $100.

Q.—A checking account? A.—A checking account.

Q.—You now have a balance in this bank? A.—No.

Q.—Why did you place this money in the bank? A.—For the purpose of establishing an identity with the Rent-a-Car Company.

Q.—After you rented the car what did you do? A.—I met Dick at Fourteenth street and Michigan boulevard.

Q.—After you left there what did you do? A.—We drove up together or rather we each drove one car up to Cramer's restaurant.

Q.—What did you do? A.—Had lunch there. We had a little bite to eat before we went into the restaurant we put up the side curtains in the car.

Q.—What time did you leave there? A.—About 1:20 or 1:30.

Q.—In the afternoon? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—We drove to my car. I put my car in the garage and then we drove over to Ingleside avenue just south of the "L."

Q.—What time did you put your car in that day? A.—I should say about 1:20 or 1:30.

Q.—Did Sven Englund come down? A.—I don't remember if Sven came down or not. I am under the impression he did.

Q.—You drove where? A.—South of Forty-eighth street on Ingleside.

Q.—You drove up alongside of where the boy was? A.—Yes.

GREETING TO VICTIM

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Dick opened the front door and yelled "Hello Bob," and he came over to the car. Dick asked him to come in a minute, saying he wanted to ask about a tennis recquet.

Q.—What time was that? A.—Between 5:00 and 5:15.

Q.—And then you went South, then to Fiftieth street? A.—South to Fiftieth to Dorchester or Blackstone.

Q.—When was the first time Richard struck Robert with the chisel? A.—Between Ellis and Greenwood on Fiftieth.

Q.—Had he become suspicious of anything. A.—No.

Q.—It was the original plan to take anyone you saw? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—Was the car the one you drove your folks home with. A.—Yes, we parked it on Greenwood avenue, just north of the driveway. I got my own car in the garage and drove around to the side door and took Dick home, let me see, gosh, I think that was when the chisel was thrown from the car.

Q.—That was the other car that was rented? A.—Yes, we must have taken the rented car and driven to the Fiftieth street entrance.

Q.—What did you do with the rented car then? A.—We washed it partly there.

Q.—That night? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you wash it with? A.—I found a bucket with some water and a brush and soap.

Q.—Where? A.—In Loeb's basement.

Q.—And then you came out and washed it and you got all the stains off? A.—No. It was at night and we didn't want to be monkeying around too much.

Q.—Where did you take your car to get some of the blood stains off? And what did you do with the rented car that night? A.—I drove it back to the place previously occupied just north of our driveway and set it there in front of an apartment house.

Q.—After you drove your aunt and uncle home and you came back, what did you do them? A.—Well, Richard Loeb was in the house.

PLAY CARDS FOR FUN

Q.—What time was that? A.—That must have been 11 o'clock.

Q.—What did you do? A.—We waited until 11:30 or 12 and we had a few more drinks and left about one o'clock.

Q.—Did you play cards while you were there? A.Yes, we played two games of casino for fun. We then went over to Dick's house with the clothes.

Q.—The clothes in the rented car? A.—Yes.

Q.—And when you got to Dick's house, what did you do? A.—We went into the basement and burned the clothes.

Q.—You left the robe down in the car? A.—No, we left the robe hidden in some brush there.

Q.—You mean outside? A.—Yes

Q.—Loeb had the chisel in his possession? A.—Yes.

Q.—And after you left Richard off and came back, did you put your car in the garage? A.—Yes. I turned on the parking lights on the rented car ad went to bed. The next morning I got up and went to school as usual at 8 o'clock and met Dick at 11.

CLEANING UP CAR

Q.—Where? A.—At the University.

Q.—Did anybody help you clean up the car? A.—Sven tried to and I told him it was all right; that we were nearly through.

Q.—When did you return the rented car? A.—Along above five or five-thiry.

Q.—How much money did you pay the car people? A.—Twenty-five dollars and some cents.

Q.—You drove down in the rented car both of you to the I. C.? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—I ad supper.

Q.—Did you see Dick the next day, and talk about the predicament you were in? A.—I am not sure that it was then or not; we discussed that a number of times.

Q.—Prior to the happening or after the happening? A.—Possibly both, I am not very sure.

Q.—Where did you get the chisel? A.—At a hardware store at 45th or 46th and Cottage Grove avenue.

Q.—Do you remember what you paid for it? A.—I think it was seventy-five cents.

Q.—Who was the doctor that prescribed the glasses you lost? A.—A doctor at 30 North Michigan avenue.

Q.—You had sort of discontinued wearing them? A.—Yes sir.

Q.—And where did you get the rubber boots? A.—They were my own.

Q.—Did you take them from your own home? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you had them in this rented car, did you? A.—Yes.

Q.—And was it much of a job to get the body in there in the culvert? A.—At first I thought it was rather doubtful if it would fit at all but after I got started it wasn't hard at all.

Q.—After you pushed it in as far as you could push it in with your hands you used your feet to push it up farther? A.—Yes.

RESORT TO ACID

Q.—At that time you had taken off your coat. Did you lay it on the ground there some place? A.—Yes, right by my shoes.

Q.—That isn't the time you lost your glasses? A.—No, that is not the time.

Q.—Now this letter that you had already prepared in an envelope with no address on it, you had prepared that letter some time prior to that? A.—Yes.

Q.—What kind of acid did you use? A.—Hydrochloric acid.

Q.—On the face of the boy? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did it take some time for that to take action? A.—Apparently it must have.

Q.—Evidently it didn't take any action at all? A.—There was no discoloration.

Q.—It finally got into the mouth? A.—It probably did.

Q.—Where did you administer the poison? A.—On the back of the culvert there.

Q.—Your purpose for doing that was to disfigure the face so that identification would be difficult? A.—So it would not be recognized at once.

Q.—What became of the spots on your clothing? A.—They didn't show very much.

WASHED OFF STAINS

Q.—Is that the suit Loeb was wearing? A.—No, that isn't the one. It is more of a greenish gray suit.

Q.—Where did you wash the stains off? A.—At home.

Q.—In the basement? A.—No, upstairs.

Q.—That night? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were the folks in bed? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have any spots on your clothes? A.—I had one, a very small stain on the back of my coat.

Q.—You at no time struck him, Robert Franks? A.—No.

Q.—At the time you conceived the kidnaping of some young fellow, did you intend to ransom him, or did you intend to murder him and hide the body. A.—We intended to murder him.

Q.—Your intention was to murder him and hide the body and collect money afterwards. A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you intend to do with the ten thousand dollars when you collected it? A.—Hide it away in an envelope or a safety deposit box or some other place for a year and then spend it very carefully.

Q.—That was the agreement reached between you and Richard? A.—Yes.

Mrs. Lucille Smith, who with her daughter, Elizabeth, testified that she saw the murder car at the Pennsylvania Railroad and 110th street.

Tony Minke, who found the body of young Franks by mere chance as he happened to pass by the culvert into which it had been shoved by the slayers.

E. Hubinger, auto renting agent, who told the grand jury that his firm rented the death car to young Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb.

Elizabeth Smith, who saw the auto in which Franks was kidnaped and slain.

Susan Laurie, the girl friend of Nathan Leopold, who declared that he laughed at the police search for the slayers before he was arrested.

BOY SLAYER'S STORY OF FINDING RARE BIRD

FOUND SONGSTER IN WILDS OF MICHIGAN

Chicago, June 5.—Following is part of the treatise Nathan Leopold, Jr., wrote on the life and habits of the Kirtland's Warbler, after an intensive and painstaking study of that rare feathered songster in its breeding haunts in northern Michigan.

It was printed in the January issue of The Auk, published by ornithologists, and at young Leopold's expense reprinted in pamphlet form for distribution among his friends.

Throughout the narrative is evidenced the same adherence to minuteness of detail and deliberate, coldly calculating stalking of the timid creature that marked his alleged plotting of young Franks' murder.

THE KIRTLAND'S WARBLER IN ITS SUMMER HOME

By N. E. LEOPOLD, JR.

During the Spring of 1922 it was my privilege to work under Normand A. Wood, of the University of Michigan Museum, the discoverer of the breeding range of Kirtland's warbler, and at his suggestion I determined to make a trip to the region where he had discovered the type, nest and egg of the species.

Consequently, on June 24, 1922, in company with James D. Watson of Chicago, I started in my auto bound for Luzerne, Oscoda County, Mich.

The first night was spent at Pentwater, Mich., about 280 miles from Chicago, and at noon of June 25 we arrived at Traverse City.

FOUND NO TRACE.

From this point it was necessary to strike due East across the State over well nigh impassable roads, and as a result we were compelled to spend the night at Grayling, still at some distance from our destination.

Although we traveled many suitable stretches of jackpine we were unable to discover any trace of the warbler. On June 26 we left Grayling and went to the little town of Luzerne, on the banks of the Eau Sable.

On the afternoon of the twenty-sixth we started out from our cabin and worked West. We saw no sign of a bird either then or during our entire stay.

RESUMES SEARCH.

We remained in the neighborhood five days, working in both directions on both banks of the river. Then we drove to the north branch of the Eau Sable, but here, too, we were unsuccessful.

In the Spring of 1923 I again determined to visit this region, and if possible, make a study of one of the breeding colonies.

On the sixteenth of June, 1923, I started from Chicago in company with James Dewey Watson, Sydney Stein, Jr., and Henry B. Steele, Jr., all of Chicago, bound for Iosco county.

According to the instructions which Mr. Wood was kind enough to furnish, we started off to drive to Foote Dam on the Eau Sable River.

We drove north about three-quarters of a mile on the M-10, the State trunk line, and then turned due west over a little sand road leading to Foote Dam.

Hardly had we driven five hundred yards on this road when Mr. Stein called our attention to a song which was unfamiliar to all of us, and we got out of our car to investigate.

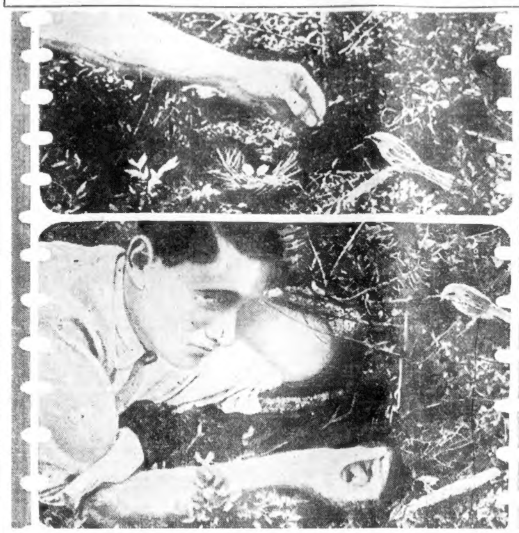
SIGHTS BIRD.

We fought our way several hundred yards through extremely dense jackpine, when Mr. Watson and the writer simultaneously caught a view of the singer perched in a large pine tree. The bird turned out to be a fine adult male Kirtland, in full nuptial plumage.

Perhaps the most striking feature of the song was its great carrying quality. The bird perched on a limb, every muscle in its body tense, points his head toward the sky and lets out a burst of clear, bubbling song, easily audible at a distance of a quarter of a mile.

In singing so much effort and vigor are put forth that the tension of the throat is very noticeable, and it seems as though the singer's throat will burst from sheer force of song.

FRANKS' SLAYER FINDS RARE BIRD



NATHAN LEOPOLD AS ORNITHOLOGIST

(International News Reel Photo)

Here are two photos, enlargements from the motion picture film made under the direction and with the aid of Nathan Leopold, held for the murder of Robert Franks. Young Leopold, who attained prominence previously as an amateur ornithologist, discovered the Kirtland, or Jack Pine, warbler the rarest of American song birds. This bird had eluded the camera of previous ornithologists and its record was incomplete until young Leopold stumbled on a nest in northern Michigan. He obtained pictures of the bird feeding its young. The upper photo shows a closeup of Leopold's hand in which is a tempting morsel for the warbler.

1 DYING, 3 HURT; AUTO CRASHES INTO TREE

Machine Skids on a Pile of Sand at Fitzgerald's Corner, Southboro

Southboro, June 6.—One man is dying, two are badly injured and another bruised and lacerated as the result of an auto accident near Fitzgerald's Corner early today.

A machine owned by Ralph McGrath of Framingham Centre, and containing as passengers Dominico Muto, Vincent O'Connell and Edward Purcell, skidded when it ran over a pile of sand and crashed into a tree.

The machine was entirely demolished. Muto was taken to the Marlboro Hospital with a fractured skull, and McGrath suffered severe contusions and possible internal injuries. O'Connell's left leg was fractured and Purcell suffered body bruises. Muto may die.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON DOPE CHARGE

Mrs. Elizabeth R. McAuliffe, twenty-eight years old, of No. 67 Burrell street, Roxbury, was before Judge A'Hearn in Roxbury Court today charged with an illegal sale of morphine. In a raid on her home the officers seized 100 grains of morphine. John McAuliffe, the woman's husband, was charged with being present where drugs were found. Both cases were continued until Friday.

$2,000 DAMAGE AT NEWBURY ST. FIRE

Fire of unknown origin did $2000 damage today to the premises at No. 382 Newbury street, Back Bay.

The fire started in the ground floor apartment of the four-story dwelling, occupied by Colby Tuttle. The various tenants of the building had no difficulty in getting out while the firemen extinguished the blaze.

PRIEST 'CURES' HUNDREDS BY USE OF HANDS

Gives Aid to 1,500 Sick and Crippled at Altar in New York Church

New York June 6—For the first time in its century-old existence a crowd of many creeds battled before the altar of historic St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway and Vesey street until it was finally necessary to call police reserves.

"Don't push this way—do you think the good Lord will have mercy on a selfish person?"

This from the Rev. Father Joseph P. McComas, the Vicar, who stood perspiring in the midst of the frantic hundreds seeking sanctuary at the altar rail.

Those milling hundreds—women and men and children, lame and blind and speechless—fighting for the laying on of hands by the Rev. Father Robert B. H. Bell, credited with aiding in cures, harkened just a moment.

Then the push for the altar steps began again—an almost insane desire by some to reach the spot where Father Bell from Denver stood before the golden cross, holding in his arms a child looking like a Lord Fauntleroy who could not walk.

Father Bell was intoning:

"Christ Jesus, help this little one to strength and happiness in your love. Lead him to walk in the paths of righteousness. Now, my child, you can walk."

Behind that rail the lad was placed on his withered feet. Father McComas, out in the midst of the throng that had rushed from its seats, raised a surpliced arm and pleaded:

"My friends, silence in the House of God, please, and let us push no more. Back, back, please"—

Suddenly a woman's voice shrieked from the sanctuary itself:

"He can walk—praise God in His Heaven."

The Little Lord Fauntleroy had taken a few steps. He was Santina Trolongo, four and one-half years old, of No. 126 Hoyt street, Brooklyn. From birth he had only crawled.

Over the heads of hundreds the child was passed to the doorway. Those without said he toddled off with his mother.

Other equally amazing cures were claimed by the unfortunates who fought to reach the priest's side.

"I do nothing—'tis the Lord Jesus. I'm just a Western vicar—have St. Thomas' Church in Denver," said Father Bell. "It is the Christ that does it. I've laid hands on 1,500 today. At least 80 per cent. were cured, I know."

Coming Marblehead Yacht Race to Be Society Mecca, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

A LIVELY program of races has been arranged for the Eastern and Corinthian Yacht clubs down Marblehead way.

A week from tomorrow—the 14th—will see the first of the 38 races for the Marblehead championship. The last of these will be held on Sept. 21st, which is later than ever before.

When the mid-Summer season is in full swing, Marblehead harbor presents one of the most picturesque sights to be found the entire length of the Atlantic seaboard. It is a mecca for countless yachtsmen cruising about, while the showing of the "resident" craft is always a big and colonial one.

Last week a band of local men went down to Long Island to compete in the series at Oyster Bay. Among the skippers were William T. Aldrich, Charles F. Adams, 2nd, Charles Hopkinson, Guy Lowell and Caleb Loring.

THE ACTIVITIES of the yacht clubs mentioned above are by no means confined to the sea. Both clubhouses are among the jolliest social centers to be found along the Shore.

Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott
(Photo by Bachrach)

This year, by the way, popular Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott is to be the guiding spirit for the younger members of the Eastern Yacht Club in their program of sporting and social activities. It would have been hard to find a more suitable person for this role than Mrs. Wolcott, who is not only one of society's most charming matrons, but is gifted with considerable organizing ability as well.

Apropos of the Eastern Yacht Club, Commodore Nathaniel F. Ayer and his bride (Helen Draper Taft) are spending their honeymoon cruising about on board the "Queen Mab." They plan to be in New London for the races, when they will entertain some of their friends aboard ship.

The wedding of the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George D. Draper to the prominent clubman was solemnized on May 24th in the old Draper mansion at Hopedale. Though the ceremonial was confined to relatives and intimate friends, it was one of the most important nuptial events of the season.

AMONG the Summer colonists returning to Marblehead Neck for another season will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sargent of Commonwealth avenue. With them will be their son and daughter, Joseph Sargent, Jr., and Miss Carryl Sargent, who was presented to society last Fall.

"Joe" Sargent, Jr., took a leading part in two amateur theatricals staged by society during the past season. He was the dashing young captain in "Mlle. Modiste," the Junior League's presentation, and also played an important part in "Oh Boy," which was presented shortly afterwards by a group of society folk for the benefit of disabled veterans.

MISS CARRYL SARGENT

Society Notes

MRS. NATHANIEL NILES is in Providence as the guest of Mrs. William Grosvenor. Mrs. Niles is taking part in the tennis matches there.

Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, formerly of Boston, gave a dinner party in New York the other evening at the Lido Venice. The affair was in honor of her daughter, Miss Louisa S. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perry of Marlboro street have opened "Cragmere," their Summer home in Nahant.

RECLAMATION BILL IS FIRST IN HOUSE

Has Preferred Status Today; Little Hope for Farm Relief Action

Washington, June 6.—Congress sailed toward adjournment today into quieter waters than customary at such times, having disposed, one way or another, of most of the major problems that threatened several days ago to make its last hours hectic.

The reclamation bill, passed by the Senate as a rider to the deficiency appropriation measure, had preferred status today in the House, while further efforts to get farm relief action with the Norris-Sinclair bill were advocated by some Senators, but with little hope of success in view of the failure of the farm bloc to agree upon an emergency proposal.

The House also had before it today the Hoch resolution for an Interstate Commerce Commission investigation of freight rates, looking to a downward revision of tariffs affecting agriculture.

As in the case of the reclamation bill, plans were made to hasten action through suspension of the rules to limit debate, bar amendments and require a two-third majority for passage.

U. S. FLIERS HOP OFF TO AMOY TOMORROW

Shanghai, June 6. (A.P.)—The American fliers on their way around the world, announce that they plan to hop off for Amoy, their next stop, at 5:30 tomorrow morning.

Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander, whose plane, the Chicago, was delayed at Kagoshima, Japan, by engine trouble, not only covered the 500-mile hop across the China Sea, but did so in an hour and a quarter less time than was required by the other two planes of the fleet, which had preceded him.

SOVIETS TO EXECUTE WOMAN DOCTOR

Odessa, Russia, June 6.—Dr. Marie Naidionova, a woman physician from Southern Russia, and four other persons have been condemned to death for alleged espionage in behalf of Poland. It was charged by the Soviet court that Dr. Naidionova during her hospital work formed an espionage organization, inducing a number of army officers and Soviet employes to join. In consequence documents regarding the strength and disposition of the Red army fe into Polish hands. Among the co demned is General Komaroff.

FILL HIM UP

WITH SAND and a little shovel which comes in the box also. He is a cute little fellow in khaki overalls. A cork in his head, under his soldier cap, holds the sand in. He stands upright, or on one leg, or in any grotesque position. $1.00. Use him as a doorstop after the kids have gone to bed. They love to fill him up. About 10 inches tall.

BLUE JAY or redbird keeps the hot teapot handle from burning you. 75 cents. Red, or blue, felt, painted. Looks ready to fly away. About 6 or 8 inches long. A good shower present.

PERCH little pottery birds on the side of your flower bowl or fruit dish. 55 cents. Plain yellow, blue or red ones; others, variegated. Pretty on the edge of a fish bowl, too.

BAMBOO HANDLES are on tall round teapots of Japanese ware. Decorated with blue. $1.00. A removable compartment holds tea leaves, and is rounded on one side, to fit the pot, resting on the bottom, with small perforations to let the water run through. Pretty. Unusual.

A TRIPLE perfume holder is covered with gilt lace and French flowers. $1.25. Round. 3 little glass bottles with dropper stoppers have 2 flat sides, so that they fit in and make a perfect circle. Fill each one with a different odor. Dainty on a dressing table. A fascinating present.

ENAMEL ON STERLING silver are little pencils with removable lead which you can pull back up into the center, so that it will not soil the daintiest purse lining. $1.00. Lovely green, several blues, all with little pink flowers. Ring to hang on ribbon. Plain ones, 75 cents. About 3 inches long. Good bridge prize.

A DECORATED BLACK case contains a holder at the end of which is a tiny sponge in a rubber cup. 50 cents. Moisten sponge, and stick all your stamps, and envelope flaps. Then screw on the cover, and you have a neat, attractive desk ornament. Round. About 6 inches long.

A GOOSE, red glass without feet, holds your vinegar. Silvered beak opens when you want to pour. Wings of glass are brought back and up above his back, for handles. $5.00. Clear glass one, to match, holds oil. $5.00. Good size. A handsome wedding gift. New and different.

CRACKLE GLASS is prettier than plain. A large lemonade pitcher, with cover, and 6 tall glasses with handles near bottom, is only $5.00. In each glass put ——

A LEMON or lime or red cherry which is made of glass and open at the end, so that you drink right through the glass straw to which it is attached. 6 for 37½ cents. Colorful. Useful.

ICY looking is a glass sherbet set of 7 pieces. $7.50. Round serving dish on base, 6 glasses, round and cute. Different from usual frosty-looking glass. On a hot day you'd be cool just looking at it.

GLASS JARS of amber or blue or green colored glass are large and deep. Hold huge flower stalks. About 10 inches high, bigger at top than bottom. $3.50. Put yellow snapdragon and blue larkspur in the amber one. Put pale pink cosmos in green one. Delightful.

RAFFIA SLIPPERS are lined with pink, and have round pink rosettes on the toes. 69 cents. Natural, with pink, or red, or green in border. Well made. Comfortable. Good summer bedroom slippers.

EXPERTS ANSWERING ALL QUERIES ON BONUS

IMPORTANT DETAILS OF NEW LAW COVERED HEREWITH

By THE SOLDIER'S FRIEND

All questions and answers concerning the new Bonus Law will be answered by experts of the Boston American-Advertiser Veterans' Bureau, in this column.

All persons interested in the bonus will find important details covered in the questions and answers printed here. Address inquiries to Boston American-Advertiser Soldiers' Friend, care No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

C. H., Hull.

Q.—What will be the amount of my bonus with 15 months overseas service and prior service in the United States?

A.—You no doubt will be entitled to the maximum amount under the new law, the amount varying, however, according to the age of the applicant. The burden is not on the applicant to correctly compute the amount due, but will be settled by the Department at Washington from service records of veterans.

J. W. M., Dorchester.

Q.—Will you please give me some information concerning the amount of bonus I will receive?

A.—The amount can only be computed according to the applicant's length of service, whether foreign or domestic, and his age at the time of applying. The applicant, however, need not correctly compute this amount, but it will be done in Washington by the Bureau.

PAYABLE TO WIFE.

J. A. P., Lowell.

Q.—May my insurance policy, under the new law, be made payable to my wife?

A.—A veteran entitled to the benefits of this new act may make the policy payable to his wife or any other beneficiary.

L. S. D., Lowell.

Q.—Will I be able to borrow on my insurance policy immediately on its issuance?

A.—Loans on insurance policies under the new act will not be permitted until two years after the date of the issuance of the policy.

E. E. C., Springfield.

Q.—Will a member of the Merchant Marine be entitled to the benefits of the Bonus?

A.—The act provides that veterans shall receive the benefits of the act, and that the term "veteran" shall include "a member of the military or naval forces of the United States at any time after April 5, 1917, and before November 12, 1918." There is no express provision as to the Merchant Marine Service, nor has there been any ruling up to date as to whether or not the Merchant Marine shall be included within the term "naval forces."

M. J., Roxbury.

Q.—May a woman whose husband served in the Navy during the war and subsequently deserted her, and whose present whereabouts are unknown, receive the benefits of the act?

A.—No. The law does not provide for payments to wives when their husbands are living; and furthermore, no veteran may receive the bonus benefit unless his discharge from the service was under honorable conditions.

COAST GUARD ELIGIBLE.

K. C., Nantucket.

Q.—Are members of the Coast Guard during the war entitled to the benefits of the Bonus Act?

A.—Yes, if their rank was under that of a first lieutenant in the Engineers of the Coast Guard, and if they were not cadets or cadet engineers.

M. O., East Boston.

Q.—May the widow of a service man who died in the service receive the benefits of the Bonus Act?

A.—A widow of a veteran who has not since remarried may receive the benefits of the Bonus Act.

J. S., Boston.

Q.—May the wife of an insane soldier make application for the benefits of the Bonus Act?

A.—Yes. The wife of a service man who is now insane may, after having been appointed legal guardian of her husband, make application for the Bonus.

U. S. SERVICE ONLY.

W. T. P., Boston.

Q.—May an American citizen who fought in one of the allied armies and not in the United States Army receive the benefits of the Bonus Act?

A.—No. The act provides for payments to veterans of the U. S. Military and Naval forces during the World War.

J. C., Pawtucket, R. I.

Q.—Is it necessary for me to have my discharge in order to make out an application for the bonus?

A.—No. Discharges need not be forwarded to Washington, and are not necessary to give the exact dates of service on the bonus application. Applicants will be asked to give the information from memory and to the best of their ability.

F. M., Boston.

Q.—May the wife of a veteran now confined in jail make application for the bonus?

A.—At the present time the Bonus Law does not provide for such a case. A veteran must personally make application for the Bonus unless he is mentally incapable, in which case his legal guardian may do so.

P. C., Roslindale.

HOW TO COMPUTE

Q.—How is foreign service computed?

A.—Foreign service is computed from the date of embarkation for overseas service to the date of disembarkation on return from such service.

W. C., Marblehead.

Q.—Will I lose any rights if I apply for the present bonus in case of a later amendment changing the insurance feature of the present law to a cash bonus?

A.—If Congress enacts amendments to the Bonus Law providing for cash paymnts, instead of insurance payments, all veterans entitled to the benefits will be treated equally and you will lose no rights.

Huntington Commencement

Huntington School will hold its fifteenth commencement exercises at Bates Hall, Y. M. C. A. Building, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Frank W. Wright, director of secondary education of the State, will give the commencement address, Headmaster Ira A. Flinner of the school will announce the honors and present the candidates, and Frank Palmer Speare, president of Northeastern University, will award the diplomas.

DEPEW, 90, PASSES UP CONVENTION

New York, June 6—Chauncey M. Depew announced today he would not attend the Republican National Convention in Cleveland, to which he is a delegate. It will be the first Republican convention he has missed since 1888.

In a petition filed in Surrogate Court, asking that Mr. Depew be relieved of a trusteeship he has administered for twenty-six years, it was stated that Mr. Depew had "arrived at the age of ninety years and now desires to be relieved of all business cares and responsibilities."

CURLEY FLAYS PHONE RATE INCREASE

Time Has Come for Revision Downward, Mayor Asserts

Charging the Committee on Rules of the Legislature with "ignoring" the bill calling for an appropriation of $50,000 to investigate the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Mayor Curley today declared the $15,000 granted the Public Utilities Commission for this purpose, to be entirely "inadequate."

The Mayor put his official endorsement today on the fight being waged by local business and local toll-call subscribers, against the $1,500,000 increase asked by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"This general and sustained expression of public sentiment ought to deter the telephone company's rapacity and greed," declared Mayor Curley.

TIME TO CUT RATE

"This is the time when prices of service and commodities ought to be decreased rather than increased. The difficulty in this case is the fact that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company is owned body and soul by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and that in addition to the dividends the latter company receives on its stockholdings in the New England company, it takes also 4½ per cent. of every cent of revenue that the local company earns, and collects a profit on all material which the Western Electric Company sells to the New England company.

"The time is coming when the contracts made by public utilities corporations will be as restricted by law and as carefully supervised as are contracts made by the Commonwealth and its municipalities. This should be done in justice to the public who are required ultimately to pay the bills.

PUBLICITY AIDS FIGHT

"Never has a public service corporation had the temerity to ask for increases of rates with such little foundation for the request as that offered by the telephone company in presentation of its case. The Public Utilities Commission would have been well justified in denying the company's petition when the company first closed its case.

The Public Utilities Commission recognizes the necessity of a general investigation into the character of service which the 'phone company is now rendering, and that such investigation should be had, before any increase in rates should be considered, much less granted.

"The fight has been greatly aided by the liberal publicity given it by the Boston American."

FRENCH ACTORS' MODESTY PRESERVED

Paris, June 6.—The modesty of the actors and actresses of the venerable Comedie Francaise Theatre has been saved.

Emile Fabvre, director of the theatre, has yielded to the protestations and threatened wholesale resignations, and decided that Felix Gandera's play, "The Virtue of Nicholas," in the second act of which the entire company appears in one-piece bathing suits will not be played.

RUSSIA IS NO MORE; THEY WRITE IT "USSR"

Paris, June 6. — "Russia" has passed out of existence according to a notice issued by the French Postal Administration authorities that the official name of the country is the "Union of Socialist Soviet Republics," which is abbreviated "USSR." The French postal officials recommend that correspondence to Russia be thus addressed.

'LIAR' AND 'KLUX' CRIES RAISED IN R. I. SENATE

Two Members Hurl Charges at Each Other in Wordy Clash During Session

Providence, June 6.—Senators John H. Greene, Jr., and Howard Peckham enlivened the Senate session by engaging in a wordy combat which lasted many minutes while the presiding officer sat back and allowed the pair to argue it out.

Senator Greene started it by calling Senator Peckham a "liar, scoundrel and hypocrite." He accused Senator Greene of being a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Senator Peckham charged Senator Greene with being an anarchist and added that while Greene is the smallest man in the Senate he is "the biggest liar in Rhode Island." Friends finally intervened and declared the affair a draw.

Beer Makers Quit and Berlin May Drink Water

Berlin, June 6.—Berlin is threatened with a beer famine. Twenty-eight breweries are closed today as the result of a strike of 8,000 brewery workers demanding an increase in wages.

The strike began Monday and the reserve stocks of most of the breweries now are exhausted. Cafes, restaurants and beer halls are striving desperately to bring a sufficient flow of Muenchener, Wurzberger and other brews from Bavaria and elsewhere to tide over the Whitsun holiday, beginning tomorrow.

GIRL ENDS LIFE WHEN SUITOR IS BANNED

Maine Mother Objected to Attentions of 60-Year-Old Sea Captain

Searsport, Me., June 6.—Miss Eleanor Closson, 24 years old, took her own life because her mother, Mrs. Katherine Closson, opposed a love affair with Captain Ernest Wheatley of Philadelphia, according to the county authorities.

Mrs. Closson was quoted as saying that she had objected to the attentions of Captain Wheatley, who is about 60 and comes here every two weeks in command of a coal steamer.

BROOKLINE HIGH HAS CLASS DAY

Perfect weather brought out a record crowd to the class day exercises of Brookline High school, held on the Cypress Street playgrounds, Brookline, today.

The exercises were impressive, including classical numbers, regimental drill and athletic features. The program started with a march of the student body headed by the school band. The class oration was given by Loren Taylor.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN DITCH NEAR TROY

Troy, N. Y., June 6.—The body of a woman was found today in a ditch beside a road leading to Snyder's Lake, one-half mile from the city limits by Clayton Allen, farm boy. Investigation revealed the woman had been dead five or six hours. There were no marks of violence. The woman wore a wedding ring and apparently was about 38 years old. Sheriff Williams is investigating.

ANGRY HUSBAND CAUSES MAINE SCANDAL

Beats Up Rival He Found With Wife Attired in Pink Pajamas

hook to jaw as he passed her. Goodell was his particular object, however, and without wasting time he set to work on the visitor.

The wife finally rushed from the house, clad only in pink pajamas. In her bare feet she pattered along State street until she reached the fire station at Parkview avenue.

SCREAMS AROUSE FIREMEN.

Daniel O'Connell, asleep in the firehouse, was aroused from his slumbers by the screams of the woman. She babbled her story to him as best she could—

"Murder—at our place—get the police."

The fireman gave an imitation of how he responds to a four alarm fire. In less than no time the fire department and the police department, the latter represented by Captain Ambrose Phillips and Patrolman Walter Strout, were at the Bubar home. They arrived just in time.

The wife was held under $1,000 bail on the statutory charge. The same amount of bail was asked on the liquor nuisance charge, while the charge of being drunk required $150 bail. The wife's mother stepped forward with the bail and her daughter was released.

The man from Houlton was held under $1,000 bail on the statutory charge and $150 on the intoxication charge. Then the spectators gasped. The wife of the gentleman from Houlton stepped forward and furnished bail for her spouse.

The husband's case was last. Judge Butterfield fined the husband $1 on the charge of "justifiable" assault. He also imposed a fine of $1 on the charge of intoxication. The husband appealed both fines and furnished his own bail, which amounted to $150.

700 ITALIANS SEEK TO BRING BACK FAMILIES

Appeal to U. S. as Result of Supreme Court Ruling Barring Their Kin

Naples, Italy, June 6 (A.P.).—Seven hundred Italian passengers arriving today from the United States on board the liner Colombo made representations to Guiseppe de Michelis, Italian commissioner of immigration, to take steps through the Italian embassy at Washington to obtain permission for them to take their families back to America despite the recent United States Superior Court ruling that their families must submit to the new quota regulations for the next year.

The passengers on the Colombo said their voyage to Italy had been prompted by the desire to bring back to America with them the families they had left in their native country. They had acted, they said in connection with the recent decision of a Federal court in New York that families of foreigners definitely established in the United States could be admitted to that country regardless of quota regulations.

While at sea they had learned by wireless that the Supreme Court had reversed the decision of the lower court.

RUM BATTLE

Erscourt have so far been unsuccessful. At Erscourt all automobiles have been halted and searched.

While searching one for a rum auto, another, driven by a woman, dashed through the town at a high rate of speed and successfully eluded the customs agents.

Definite details concerning the conflict are lacking, for it is waged in the thick forests which fringe the international border in the Temiscuota region. It is known, however, that huge quantities of liquor have been cached in the timber fastnesses for smuggling into the United States.

Canadian and American revenue and custom agents, as well as inspectors of the Quebec Liquor Commission, invaded the region recently to hunt for the liquor, and block its passage across the line.

First reports were that the cached liquor was moonshined in the stills which abound in the border wilds. It has since been quite definitely established that the contraband came from St. Pierre, Miquelon.

400 ALIENS AT ELLIS ISLAND HAVE NO BEDS

New York, June 6.—Four hundred immigrants are held without beds on Ellis Island, 547 more are on the Fabre liner Providence awaiting to land and another 200 are expected today on other steamers, Byron H. Uhl, acting Commissioner of Immigration said.

Mr. Uhl blamed the steamship companies for the overcrowding, declaring they had rushed great numbers of immigrants here under the so-called Gottlieb ruling of the U. S. Court of Appeals permitting the families of citizens to land even if in excess of quota. That ruling, since reversed by the Supreme Court, is responsible, Mr. Uhl said, for the illegal presence in this country of about 7,000 immigrants.

TENT LEAKED, CIRCUS DEMANDS $100,000

Providence, June 6.—The Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows has entered suit in the Superior Court here for $100,000 against the Tate Electrolytic Processes, Inc., of Cranston.

The circus claims that two years ago it was assured by the Tate Company that it had an absolutely waterproof process for protecting circus tents, and that the tents used here last year by the circus were treated by that process.

It is claimed that in a heavy rainstorm on the night the circus showed, many circus costumes were ruined by the deluge.

4 Inches Above Knees Limit on Women's Bathing Suits

Atlantic City, N. J., June 6 (I.N.S.)—Women's bathing suits must reach to four inches above the knees this Summer, police announced today.

Other stringent regulations embodied in an ordinance passed by city commissioners were:

No more diving board or "sledding"; automobile tires barred from the water; launching of canoes from the beach forbidden, and watermelon or marshmallow parties banned without the mayor's permission.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk, and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz."

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

A few cents buys a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel.

WRECKERS PLAN TO RAZE HOME OF RECLUSE

New Owner Says His Crew Will Start on Roof Despite "War" Ultimatum

Open warfare was expected to break out today in the vicinity of No. 296 Beacon street, Somerville, in the now famous Battle of Eviction.

Arrayed on the defensive are Frank Anton Funcke who is barricaded in the home of his ancestors, with one rifle and a forester's axe.

On the other hand, expected to assume the offensive, were Israel Waldmman of Chelsea, owner of No. 296, and a small army of constables and building wreckers.

A third party in the affair, maintaining a strict neutrality, but ready to interfere in case of necessity, are a squad of Somerville police.

"Today we proceed against the enemy. First, the roof of the building is coming off—just as fast as my hardy crew of wreckers can make it come off. Then out will go Funcke and all his possessions."

Waldmann, by way of explanation, has just bought the property occupied by Funcke for the little matter of the back taxes due on the property.

The new owner declares he has warned the tenant to vacate but it has been of no avail. Now he says he will stand for no more "trifling."

Funcke, on the other hand, a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1897, and for the past five years a recluse in the home he now occupies, has announced he is prepared to fight eviction proceedings to the last ditch.

MAINE REALTOR HELD AS BANK ROBBER

Portland, Me., June 6.—George D. Murray, a local real estate broker, familiarly known as "Don" Murray, was arrested on a charge of breaking and entering with intent to rob the Bridgton National Bank. He is alleged to have confessed.

Murray entered the basement, where the vault is located, and connected an electric drill to a light socket, according to his alleged statements, but was frightened away when a light appeared in a dwelling near the bank.

ADVERTISING IS THEME OF TRADE SESSION TODAY

Radio Expected to Help Put American Markets Before Foreign Buyers

If there were American advertising men in Europe, the process of financial rehabilitation would be accelerated.

This was declared today at the third day's session of the Eleventh National Foreign Trade Convention at the Copley Plaza, by Edward N. Hurley, war chairman of the United States Shipping Board and member of the World War Foreign Debt Commission.

"In export advertising," he said, "there are the same essentials to success as in domestic advertising. The job is harder because of distance and it is still harder because the standard of ethics is different.

"But radio will shortly reduce the former handicap and the progressive action of American advertising men will reduce the latter handicap.

GAINS INFLUENCE.

"The work that has been done in America is gaining influence abroad. Every advertising man is aware of the interest that has been taken by the fraternity board in the standard set in America. Inquiries are constantly being made from foreign sources as to the methods pursued in America. Some of the greatest advertising successes abroad have been made by American advertising men."

The newspaper is the most effective medium for advertising in the foreign trade field, Paul C. Mahony, director of foreign sales of the Wahl Co., New York, pointed out in his address.

"Advertising has, as its main objective, the promotion of general good will, and through that good will, to make sales to a foreign public," he asserted. "In most cases the newspaper will be the backbone of the campaign.

MORE SPACE ADVISED.

"In no country abroad does the magazine or periodical approach the effectiveness of this form of advertising as at home. The best advertising copy is illustrated and calls for little explanation. More newspaper space, rather than less, should be used in any single advertisement."

Admiral Leigh T. Palmer, president of the United States Fleet Corporation, made a plea for a "healthy merchant marine," as "an absolute necessity to the safety and prosperity of the American people."

SHIPPING PROBLEMS.

"The government," he said, "can aid the merchant marine in many ways, but we should not rely upon it. While government aid is to be encouraged and welcomed, it is more important for the lasting good of the merchant marine that private enterprise be directed to the solution of our shipping problems, with a view to diminishing, and eventually removing, the differential that exists between American and foreign operating costs.

"Our nation, in large part, has been built by the seafaring peoples. Our maritime achievements in the early half of the last century, as well as our naval accomplishments throughout our history, have demonstrated our fitness on the sea.

"The call of the sea will find a ready response when economic conditions become favorable to American enterprise thereon. That time is slowly but surely approaching."

ACCEPT DAWES PLAN, URGES STRESEMANN

Berlin, June 6 (I.N.S.)—Acceptance of the Dawes reparation plan means not only the salvation of Germany, but a relaxation of political tension throughout the world, Foreign Secretary Gustav Stresemann told the Reichstag in a ringing speech this afternoon.

In urging acceptance of the Dawes plan Stresemann declared it would save the Rhineland from anarchy and chaos."

"The Dawes report is an epoch making document in world history, and the history of economics," said the foreign secretary. The Dawes plan will shift the reparations question from an atmosphere of brutal force towards an atmosphere of economic reasoning by equals. It is a downright condemnation of the Ruhr invasion and destroys the lie that Germany is unwilling to pay."

SCULPTRESS WEDS BEFORE OWN STATUE

New York, June 6.—Miss Malvina C. Hoffman, American sculptress, and Samuel Bonarios Grimson, English musician, inventor and scientist, will be married today in the Memorial Chapel of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The ceremony will be performed before the bride's statue, "The Sacrifice," which symbolizes the common sacrifces of men and women in attainment of the ideal. Before his hands were injured during the World War, Mr. Grimson was a violinist of note.

GIANT MAGNET ROBS VISITORS OF THINGS

London, June 6.—Visitors to the engineering section of the British Empire exhibition being held at Wembley must take great care of their umbrellas and any other articles containing steel or iron, for one of the exhibits is a giant magnet weighing nearly 6,720 pounds. The magnet has several times stolen souvenirs from visitors. A woman carrying a handbag apparently of silver had it drawn from her grasp, and several umbrellas have been snatched from the hands of their owners.

Need Airplane, Says Pushcart Man as He Pays Fine

The war of the police on pushcart peddlers to restrain them from selling their wares in the restricted areas of the business section of the city, netted several victims today before Judge Murray in Municipal Court.

Pasqualli Mucci of Hale street, West End, the first victim, was haled for selling tomatoes on Winter street. In court he produced both his State and city licenses and thought that ended the matter. Judge Murray explained to him he would not be permitted to sell his goods in the restricted area.

"Then must I get an airplane?" he asked.

He and several others were fined $10 each.

W. P. LYMAN, 65, EXPIRES ON GOLF LINKS

Millionaire Boston Banker Dies Near Where Another Lost His Life

William P. Lyman, 65, millionaire retired banker of Boston, died suddenly on the golf links of the Montecito Country Club at Santa Barbara, Cal., while engaging in a twosome with a friend. He had been a Winter resident of Santa Barbara for a number of years.

Mr. Lyman is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Beeckman Lyman, who is a sister of R. Livingstone Beeckman, former Governor of Rhode Island; three sisters, Mrs. L. L. Lorillard, Newport, R. I.; Mrs. Amos Tuck French of France, and Mrs. Campbell Steward of Goshen, N. Y.

Mr. Lyman's death occurred at almost the same spot as that of E. L. Patterson, Detroit capitalist, who dropped dead on the links six months ago.

Mr. Lyman was a graduate of Harvard of the Class of 1882. Burial will be in California.

POLICEMAN'S CHILD HIT BY AUTO, DYING

Mary O'Connor, ten-year-old daughter of Patrolman Hugh J. O'Connor, of No. 350 Highland avenue, Malden, is dying at Malden Hospital of injuries suffered when she was run over by an auto truck at Highland avenue and Charles street. After hitting the girl, the driver, James Cummings, of No. 1132 Tremont street, drove the truck into a tree.

MAN KNOCKED 50 FEET DOWN CLIFF BY AUTO

Drawn to Street by Crash in Front of Home, Peabody Resident Is Run Down

Attracted to the street from his home by the sound of a crash of two automobiles, Peter Shalutsky of No. 177 Andover street, Peabody, was probably fatally injured when he was struck and knocked down a fifty foot embankment by a third automobile.

The driver of the machine that struck Shalutsky was proceeding at the rate of about fifty miles an hour at the time, according to the police, and was arrested on a charge of overspeeding. He gave his name as Charles Connors of Warren street, Peabody.

The drivers of the two automobiles that collided near Shalutsky's home were Chester Bent of Peabody and Robert W. Osgood of Salem. Their machines were wrecked, but they escaped unhurt.

STEARNS DESCRIBES HIS LOVE-MAKING WITH MRS. PENNINGTON

to appear and testify and to do it voluntarily."

Q.—May I have that letter? A.—Mr. Fuller is in the courtroom and if he has it with him you may.

Coakley then obtained from Fuller a copy of the letter. The letter, telling of the indictment, was read to the jury.

Q.—Are you willing, Mr. Stearns, to have Mr. Fuller turn over to me all the correspondence that has passed between you? A.—Yes.

AVOID PUBLICITY

Coakley turned to Mr. Fuller, who produced a sheaf of letters, which were also offered as evidence. These letters embodied correspondence concerning the status of the Stearns case.

They resulted from a long-distance telephone call which Captain Stearns made from Grand Rapids to Lancaster, Mass.

In one of the letters Fuller explained to Captain Stearns that he had conferred with Herbert Parker who had been in conference with District Attorney Reading on several occasions, and that it was his opinion that Stearns should come on.

Fuller explained in this letter that Stearns could appear "without undue publicity." He further explained that developments might obviate Stearns' appearance on the witness stand and that he had better go to the Hotel Bancroft in Worcester rather than come to Boston direct.

Q.—How long did State Officer Stokes remain in Grand Rapids? A.—Two or three days.

Q.—How many times did he interview you? A.—Three times.

Q.—Did he receive telephone instructions to return? A.—No.

A letter from Stearns to his attorney, dated April 14, 1924, was read by Coakley. It said in part:

ALWAYS "PAYING"

"It seems a long time since I heard from you. A great deal has happened. In the afternoon and evening of April 8 a man who said he was from Boston called the present Mrs. Stearns on the telephone. He wanted to see her but she told him she did not know him.

"This man Lyons saw me also said he was from Coakley's office, and he made references to certain matters. These were letters written to me by my first wife before the divorce. Are these stolen letters admissable? There was some suggestion that they hoped I wouldn't testify and that the yellow newspapers would like to publish the letters. A reference was also made about getting someone, Choate, with influence enough to get the prosecution of Coakley quashed.

"The whole affair affected my wife's heart very much. As for myself, I can endure more. How would you feel, Henry, if you were in my place? But then, you have always lived honorably, and it would be hard to think of you in my place. I feel my happiness and honorable life out here in Grand Rapids tumbling about my head. Does a man never get through paying in this life?"

In a letter written by Attorney Fuller to Stearns reference was made to an "arch conspirator." This letter said: "Both Herbert Parker and I will do all we can to save you from the ordeal of testifying, but the district attorney of Middlesex county is very anxious to bring to justice the rascals who have heretofore escaped."

Another letter, also from Fuller to Stearns, said in part:

EX-WIFE INDICTED

"District Attorney Reading wants your promise that you will come to testify. His professional career is at stake in this prosecution and he cannot afford to take any chances. I do not know whether Mrs. Sewall (the first Mrs. Stearns) will be extradited and tried with other defendants, with whom, I understand, she has been indicted.

"Of course, if she does come, she may turn State's evidence, and, in that case, perhaps your testimony will not be needed at all."

In another letter Fuller told Captain Stearns he was telegraphing to him from Lynn because Fuller had heard that in the Cambridge office there were "leaks through which the defendants have obtained information."

Coakley resumed his cross-examination.

Q.—Didn't you state yesterday that you had no knowledge that Stokes had a warrant for your arrest? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't you state that no notice had ever reached you that you had been indicted? A.—Yes.

UNHAPPY AT HOME

Q.—Didn't you state that no mention was made in your telephone conversation with Mr. Fuller that you had been indicted? A.—Yes.

Q.—Had you forgotten that Stokes had a warrant for you when he went out to Grand Rapids? A.—Yes. I had forgotten.

Q.—Do you think this photograph is that of the same woman you met in the Hotel Chamberlain at Norfolk? A.—Her face and eyes are the same. Her hat and coat are different.

Q.—Was it an unusual thing for a strange woman to talk to you at the hotel? A.—It is not unusual for women to talk to the officers and for the officers to talk to strange women.

Q.—Did you see her again that day? A. Yes. That evening.

Q.—Who made the appointment? A.—I can't recall whether she did or I did.

Q.—Do you remember what conversation you had? A.—We talked about the war and other subjects.

Q.—Were you smitten with her? A.—She appealed to me.

Q.—Was there any love making? A.—Yes.

Q.—Any impropriety? A.—I don't think so.

Captain Stearns denied that he had ever had any improper relations with Mrs. P. M. Pennington either at Fortress Monroe, Boston or at the Cambridge apartment.

Coakley then asked him about the references in her letters to him where she said "I am going shopping. Is that size 6¼ or 6½? Wait 'til you see the beautiful long white ones I have. Oh daddy! I'm going to drive you crazy."

HOLD HANDS

Stearns replied: "She was wearing short ones and she wanted me to know she had some long ones. I really can't explain further, Mr. Coakley."

Q.—Did you reply that you were anxious to see her long white gloves? A.—I might have.

Q.—What was the idea? A. It was nothing more than a foolish sentiment, that's all. It had been with me since I was a little child when I liked to hold my mother's hand when she was wearing kid gloves. It was just a desire to have something that belonged to some one else.

SISTERS PAY $2,040 FOR SMUGGLED GEMS

New York, June 6.—After receiving from Misses Anna and Augusta Gross a certified check for $2,040 six per cent. of the appraised value of the jewelry which the women were accused of purchasing after it had been smuggled into the United States, Federal Attorney Ralph C. Greene of Brooklyn announced today that he probably would ask that the indictment against the sisters be dismissed.

"The sisters denied they knew the gems were smuggled and believed they were paying full value for them," said Mr. Greene. "I do not believe they had any guilty knowledge of the smuggling. They concealed nothing from us and readily produced the gems for appraisal."

The women had been indicted on testimony of Bertha Brunz, formerly a stewardess on the liner George Washington.

CONDUCTOR FALLS FROM ROOF OF CAR

Elijah Fanning, a street car conductor, of No. 7 Highland avenue, Roxbury, was seriously injured when he fell from the roof of a street car, at the corner of Cypress and Boylston streets, Brookline, this afternoon. Fanning was on the roof fixing the trolley, when he slipped.

Mexico City.—It is declared in church circles that either Cardinal Hayes of New York or Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago will be invited to preside at the national eucharistic congress to be held here.

Sugar Coated Cod Liver Oil Tablets Put on Flesh and Build Them Up

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets

Just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of these wonderful flesh making tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets will start to help a weak, thin undernourished [illegible].

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. No need to give them any more nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are made to take the place of that good but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine and they surely do it. They do put on flesh.

Ask any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—as easy to take as candy and not at all expensive—60 tablets 60 cents.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

MISSES A REAL HONEYMOON, PEGGY SAYS

"Why, I Have Had Hardly a Chance to See Costa Alone," Declares the Countess

New York, June 6—Countess Gosta Morner, the former Peggy Hopkins [illegible] marriage [illegible] in one [illegible] her stalwart [illegible] forever and ever.

Peggy's [illegible] so far has been the [illegible]. Both [illegible] looking forward to [illegible] a steamer for Europe. [illegible] the ocean at least they will have one week of uninterrupted [illegible].

"Was [illegible] first chance to make a [illegible]?" Peggy was asked. Her poise was untouched. With a glance at Count Morner she replied:

"This was the first time I'd met a real man [illegible]."

She was accused of being very like an old-fashioned wife, who let her husband speak for her.

"I've spoken for myself long enough," said Peggy.

Was she going back on the stage? The first promise Peggy made her husband was that she would never appear behind the footlights again. So her reply was:

"I think if you really love your husband and want to remain happy married, you should do as he wishes, don't you?" answered Peggy very softly. The famed heart breaker of the world was submissive as a dove.

"What a honeymoon!" Peggy gasped. "I don't feel that I'll ever want to see people again! Why, I've had hardly a chance to speak to Gosta alone. And he's my husband."

HERE'S PEGGY AND HER NEWEST HUSBAND

(International News [illegible])

COUNT GOSTA MORNER AND BRIDE

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, famous international beauty and bride, with her newest husband, Count Gosta Morner, member of an old and illustrious Swedish family. They were married quietly at Atlantic City several days ago after a brief courtship. The Count and Countess are now in New York, but will return to Chicago shortly, where the Count is engaged in business.

LONDON RAIL STRIKE CLOSES CENTRAL LINE

London, [illegible] trade union officials described as "the first big test of [illegible]" [illegible]

Trade union circles oppose the strike. The whole staff of the Wood Lane power station went out today, necessitating the closing of the Central London Railway.

Irish Boundary Head Ex-Lawyer and Son of English Cleric

London, June 6 — Judge Richard Feetham, appointed chairman of the Irish boundary commission, is virtually unknown to the public here. He is fifty years old, the son of an Englishman clergyman, a graduate of Oxford and a former London barrister.

He went to the Transvaal in 1902, became town clerk of Johannesburg and then entered Parliament but resumed the practice of law and became an advocate in the Supreme Court of South Africa. He was recently made a judge.

DOCTOR ACQUITTED OF DRUNK CHARGE

Worcester, June 6. After deliberating for nearly twenty hours, a Superior Court jury reported a verdict of not guilty in the trial of Dr. Edward V. Killelea, prominent Fitchburg physician, charged with operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor. Dr. Killelea's machine collided with another on Main street, Fitchburg, February 24.

JUDITH COOLIDGE IS BRIDE OF GREENWOOD

Fitchburg, June 6.—Miss Judith Coolidge, [illegible] of Marcus A. Coolidge [illegible] Greenwood of [illegible] Boston, were married at noon today at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Louise Coolidge, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Helen Coolidge, another sister, and Miss Louise Uihlein of Milwaukee were bridesmaids. The best man was Ralph Greenwood, brother of the groom.

Miss Coolidge [illegible] Mary C. Wheeler [illegible] Providence and also attended [illegible] school [illegible]. The groom is a graduate of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

Quality
the direct route to Economy

No man ever saved anything buying a cheap suit of clothes, but many a man has lost money in that way.

Quality is usually worth all it costs. The lack of quality never is. We're probably the fussiest people in town as regards the quality of our merchandise. At the same time, cash buying, cash selling and the tremendous volume of our 10-store business enables us to offer a price advantage, also.

So there's a double economy in buying here—the economy of quality and the economy of our greater value-giving.

Suits - $25 to $65

Each one the best of its kind the market affords, correctly styled, finely tailored and exceptional value for the money.

The Boston American Is the Only Boston Evening Paper to Print the Final Scores of the Ball Games

SPORTS

REDS WREAK VENGEANCE; WALLOP BARNES

BRAVES ARE UNABLE TO SCORE

By NICK FLATLEY

The Braves are in the doldrums, a very bad way to be at the start of a western invasion, and until they emerge baseball in these parts consists mostly in getting the returns from the West. The Bancrofts have stopped hitting the ball for some strange reason, and until they make connections again, they are what you might call uninteresting.

Manager Davey, Tierney and Stuffy McInnis were all socking the huckleberry for much better than the well known .300 while the team was on the road. But since the boys have come home not one of the trio has injected a base hit into the box scores of two games. A team that loses all [illegible] suddenly just naturally has to be beaten.

The [illegible] claimed, of course, that the Wigwam is the toughest place in the world for [illegible] ters, but we have noticed over quite a stretch that the visitors manage to maul the marble, with oft recurring zest and frequency.

The Braves' punch will return shortly, and when it does things will look up. The club isn't anything like out of the scramble for the first division. Any kind of short winning spurt will bring it back there.

REDS HAVE FINE STAFF OF TWIRLERS.

And perhaps it's only poetic justice that the Reds should collect a few games [illegible] knocked them off for a [illegible] in Cincy [illegible] and [illegible] might [illegible] it.

E[illegible] out of [illegible] the club has the best staff in the league. Adolph Luque, a sensation in '23, hasn't helped the cause at all this spring. He isn't as young as he used to be.

Pete Donohue, one of the game's most promising youngsters, has been slow to deliver also. So Manager Jack Hendricks is resting the pair of them up. He's likely to let them vacation all through this eastern excursion, except perhaps for relief work now and then.

He has plenty of pitchers. Eppa Rixey in the opening game here was his old self, which is quite a flinger. Tom Sheehan, the veteran from the minors, unfurled one of the nicest games of the year while beating the Braves, 6 to 0. Thomas has won six now, and lost one.

Jakie May, the much heralded Pa[illegible] is ready for steady work [illegible] the game he started [illegible] the part. He was [illegible] P. M. Then Carl Mays has a new lease of life in a new league, and ol' Rube Benton can still win ball games. So the Red pilot hasn't any pitching worries to speak of.

When his injured regulars, five of them, come back, and his two best pitchers round into shape, the Reds will be quite a ball team, and will take a lot of beating. They're all shot at present, but just the same they're hanging right onto the pace.

EAGLE DEFEATS PRINCETON 7 TO 1

Princeton, N. J., June 6.—The Boston College nine walked away with a 7-to-1 victory in an easy game against the Princeton Tigers. The Bostonians hit their winning stride in the second frame and scored during the next four successive innings until they had made their total of 7.

Charlie Caldwell pitched for the Orange and Black team for the first five innings, but he presented no mystery to the visitors, who pounded him for ten hits, including two three-baggers, which were both accounted for by Darling, Boston centre-fielder. Before the Maroon nine had finished with the Tigers, they had run up a total of thirteen hits, the last three being against Cutting who replaced Caldwell on the mound.

McCrehan pitched a sterling game for the Boston College team, allowing only three hits during the entire game. The heavy batting for the Bostonians was done by McIntyre, second base, who made a total of three, and Darling, who knocked out two triples. Errors were not much in evidence on either team, the Tigers making two, while the visitors ran up three in all. Strikeouts were also rare, but Charlie Caldwell managed to fan three of the opposing batters.

The Princeton nine made their lone tally in the first inning, and it looked as though the Tigers were set for a big day. But the Boston nine put a damper on their hopes in the second frame, when a triple by Darling and singles by Whelan, Cronin and Finnigan accounted for two tallies for the visiting team.

SOX LOSE TO BROWNS, 5-2; AGAIN TIED WITH YANKS

St. Louis, June 6.—The pennant race with the Red Sox ad the Yankees setting a neck-and-neck clip continues to excite the western end of the American League. Thrown back for a loss through yesterday's 5-2 defeat, the Red Sox now are in a dead heat with the world champions but prepared to resume their winning stride in closing their engagement with the Browns today.

Manager Fohl will have Southpaw Fabr Ferguson and Fullerton as his pitching selections while George Sisler will choose between Dixie Davis and Hubert Pruett.

ERNIE WINGARD STOPS SOX' HEAVY HITTERS.

Every now and then the Red Sox drift into a batting slump. Either that or the opposing pitching is too much for them. Such was the case yesterday, when Ernie Wingard, who has blossomed forth as one of the pitching sensations in the American League this season. Wingard had a remarkable run on the road recently, when he tamed the Indians, Yankees and Nationals for successive victories.

His pitching stopped the Sox, who had a chance to tighten their first-place grip, with rain interfering with the Yanks' game in Chicago, but Wingard dished up tantalizing southpaw benders and the Sox scoring two runs in the third inning were blanked the rest of the route.

For a change the Sox were forced to fight from the rear with the Browns leaping on Howard Ehmke for one run in the first and two more in the second, but although they had three walks to start something they were unable to follow through with the necessary base hit.

And then, with the Sox prepared to start a ninth inning rally, the Browns added two runs in their eighth when Williams bunted safely, Jacobson was hit and Pat Collins doubled to left.

But yesterday's defeat has been wiped off the books by Fohl who preaches: "Don't fret about yesterday's game, but win today's."

Sitting on even terms with the Yankees is far more than even the Red Sox expected.

PICK ANDOVER TO WIN AGAIN OVER EXETER

By FRED C. LANE

Whenever an athletic team from Exeter or Andover scores a victory over the other it is the signal for a bonfire on the school campus, snake dancing and other outward signs of merriment and rejoicing.

Rumors have it that an enormous pile of kindling awaits but the match to celebrate another Andover victory when the Bay State school meets the New Hampshire delegation at Andover tomorrow.

Exeter has not won a baseball game from Andover since 1921 and the very same pitchers, Shoop and Smith, that beat Exeter 10 to [illegible] in 1923, are to twirl again this season.

Andover has lost but two games thus far. Dean Academy set them back to the tune of 4 to 3, while the Harvard freshman scored the other victory that went eleven innings.

Exeter has but a skeleton of its 1923 outfit. Only Linscott, M[illegible], Sawyer and McLaughlin are left.

In addition to Shoop and Smith, Andover has Jones, McTeviar and Parisien, outfielders; Prior at first base, Captain Mumby at short, Foote catching and Randall holding down the hot corner. These boys made ten out of the fifteen hits in last year's game and are very likely to do better than that average in tomorrow's contest.

In the general makeup of the Andover team are two Greater Boston boys who have done remarkably well in assisting Andover to set up the fine record this year.

Dick Vaughn, last year of Newton, is playing a slashing game about the keystone sack and has been instrumental in many victories with his timely hitting. Ernest Dudley has been the mainstay behind the bat.

Coach Leander McDonald uncovered this lad when he played for the Cambridge Latin team. He has a fine throwing arm and is one of the hardest batters on the Andover club.

JACK KELLEHER TO STAY OUT OF STICKS

Jack Kelleher of Brookline will remain out of organized baseball this year. When Jack was being tossed around after the Braves sold him to Pittsburgh, he decided to accept an offer to play with the McElwain Shoe Company team of Manchester, N. H. He will report there next week to play third base.

Pittsburgh released Kelleher to Kansas City but he refused to join the club.

Sheehan Accused of Tampering With Ball

Big Tom Sheehan of the Reds was accused of tampering with the ball in the conflict between the Cincinnati club and our Braves yesterday.

Mickey O'Neil made the charge in the fourth and evidenly won his argument, for Umpire Quigley tossed out the ball questioned by him and then O'Neil walloped the substituted pill for a clean single.

Quigley threw the ball over to Bob Hart, stationed at third base, with instructions to him to save it so it may be sent to President John A. Heydler for examination.

BOSTON LATIN DEFEATS OLD RIVAL, 4-1

Boston Latin closed its baseball season yesterday with a 4 to 1 victory over the old rivals, English High, yesterday at the Walpole street grounds.

A nice crowd turned out to watch a very fine ball game. Latin made three errors, two by Nolan in left field, but this lad helped to make up for the misplays with a couple of great catches. English played one of its best games of the year and turned in but one error.

One of the heroes of the tussel was Mantle, the Latin twirler who ordinarily plays shortstop. This boy, who proved he had the goods in a recent game against Commerce, let down the English batters with but three hits, while his teammates were clouting Lefty Flynn for fourteen socks. Mantle also fanned ten batters and whacked out a double to make his day a rosy one.

English had its outs and Flynn got into bother in the opening frame when Donaghy, the classy third sacker on Latin, splashed one for two bases. Goldman followed with a hit to score him and then stole second and was sent home by Dwyer's single.

English caught up a run in the same frame, but Latin came right back with hits and McGuinness double, followed by Mantle's double boosted Latin's stock. Latin scored again in the seventh when Nolan singled, stole, and was scored on Donaghy's single.

Donaghy certainly had Flynn's number for the Latin lad went up to the plate five times and each time clicked out a hit. Frank Flynn, the little second sacker on English, who is but 14 years of age, turned in a nice game with six flashy chances without a misplay.

Congratulations From Owner of Red Sox

"I am vitally interested in the prosperity of Boston," says "Bob" Quinn, owner of the Red Sox, "and so I want to congratulate the smokers of Boston on the fact that they get a fine cigar and at the same time patronize home industry when they smoke Elcho cigars. The steady increase in the sale of the Elcho shows that smokers evidently appreciate this cigar. I admire a winner, especially a Boston winner, so I want to felicitate the Elcho on its success."

Don't Be Misled by What Your Set Can Do Now

One reader complains that the Boston American programs are no longer as accurate as they used to be, this complaint being founded on the fact that many of the distant stations now listed do not come in any more.

The summer range of a receiving set is nowhere near the range in Winter.

This should also be kept in mind when the list of stations received on sets tested by the American is studied. A set which picks up stations in a 150-mile range at this time of year would probably have a range of 1,500 miles or more in Winter.

C LD LABOR LW PUT UP TO VOTERS

Leature Passes and Govnor Signs Bill for Referendum

As result of a bill passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor [illegible] citizens of the State will have the opportunity of voting for ratification of the child labor amendment to the federal Constitution at the November elections.

The passage of the bill was one of the last acts of the General Court [illegible] to prorogation.

[illegible] of State Cook, by direction of the Governor, announced that during the session 50[illegible] acts and [illegible] resolves had received executive approval.

The Governor was sustained on [illegible] acts which he had returned with objections in writing, while two acts became law without the Governor's signature.

The decision of the Legislature to give the people a chance to express their approval of the child labor amendment was influenced largely by a desire to escape criticism that might arise over what the members [illegible] would be considered [illegible] if immediate ratification predicted.

It was pointed out that great indignation was expressed by many over the ratification of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution and that the Legislature went on record in 1920 in favor of a popular referendum on matters of this sort in the future.

The last minutes of the House session were marred by the refusal of Representative James J. Mellen, [illegible] town to vote for [illegible] resolution [illegible] by Representative [illegible] Hall of Leominster [illegible] Speaker B. Loring Young for his fairness to the members.

Mellen rising to his feet declared that he [illegible] the Speaker [illegible] impartial. He disregarded cries of "sit down" from his colleagues.

YOUNG EULOGIZED.

After Mellen had finished, Democrat after Democrat arose and [illegible] Young. The resolution was [illegible] adopted, every member voting [illegible] with the exception of [illegible] representative.

At the request of Representative [illegible] of Boston the Speaker addressed the members, thanking them for their expressions of respect [illegible]. He was accorded a [illegible] ovation.

[illegible] between the Senate and House [illegible] to compel [illegible] was finally [illegible] of the program.

AUTO INSURANCE

[illegible] I have [illegible] that the State [illegible] from [illegible] companies when [illegible] premiums [illegible] for agents' commissions.

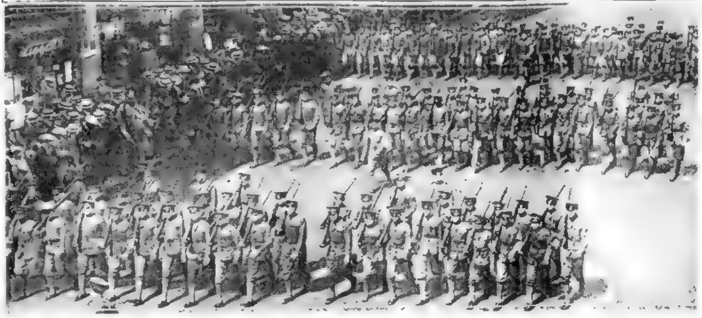
If the State is to [illegible] ion, then it should provide that policies should be furnished at cost or it should establish a State fund for this purpose to which every person who is granted a registration of motor vehicle shall be obliged to contribute."

ALLEN A CANDIDATE.

The Governor signed the [illegible] further study of the [illegible] subject of reciprocal insurance [illegible] Joseph [illegible] Larson of [illegible] and Robert [illegible] of East [illegible] amended [illegible] authorizing [illegible] for the [illegible]. For more than [illegible] months both Larson and [illegible] have worked [illegible] for the [illegible] of the measure.

Immediately following prorogation President Frank G. Allen of [illegible] Senate formally announced his [illegible] for the Republican [illegible] for Lieutenant Governor.

SCHOOL CADETS' PARADE TIES UP TRAFFIC



HEAD OF COLUMN ON BOYLSTON STREET AT CORNER OF TREMONT

English High regiments headed the annual parade of the Boston school cadets today. More than 9,000 were in line, and they were reviewed by Mayor Curley at City Hall and by Governor Cox and Lieutenant-Governor Fuller at the State House. The cadets disbanded on Boston Common. Traffic was tied up all along the route.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

You doubtless read the other day of a $[illegible] gift [illegible] George F. Baker the veteran New York banker to the Business School of Harvard University. You may have read at the same time that Mr. Baker, who has [illegible] many millions, has been the most silent business man America has ever known and that is the truth.

I have [illegible] from Mr. Baker what undoubtedly is the very first line he has ever written for publication.

For some time I have been gathering from our foremost business and financial leaders their favorite motto. Although I well knew that Mr. Baker had never written a sentence for publication, I went ahead and explained to him what I was doing, and politely asked him if he wouldn't tell, for the benefit of others what his guiding [illegible] had been all through his long life—he is eighty-four. I had a pleasant surprise when I found in the mail, a day or two later, a response from Mr. Baker. Here is Mr. Baker's favorite motto:

IT CAN BE DONE.

Mr. Baker went further. He wrote that, in all his own activities—and they have been on a colossal scale—he had set before himself this rule: "If [illegible] in doubt give the bank the benefit of [illegible]." In other words, whenever there was any question as to whether the results of any operation really belonged to him personally or to his institution, he always decided in favor of the bank and its stockholders. Perhaps that is one reason why the First National Bank of New York has been able to pay 60 per cent. dividends a year.

* * *

It is interesting to note that E. H. Gary, the veteran chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, long, long ago adopted exactly the same motto. At any moment the Judge can press a button in his office and [illegible] there bursts forth, in illuminated letters, the sign "It Can Be Done."

Seeing that George F. Baker has been able to rise to the very top of the banking world, and Judge Gary to the highest position in the largest industrial enterprise in the world, this [illegible] motto would appear to be a good one for some of the rest of us to adopt.

* * *

The Corn Products Refining Company has attracted nation-wide attention during recent years by the phenomenal increase in the value of its securities. Its success has been due mainly to one man, E. T. Bedford, its go-getting, far-seeing president who, like Mr. Baker and Judge Gary, has enjoyed a very long life. Mr. Bedford's favorite motto is out of the ordinary. It is: "Never object to or resent criticism." Incidentally, Mr Bedford had his share of it at certain stages of his career, while he was wrestling against inordinate difficulties in his effort to create a successful enterprise out of what was then a struggling company.

Livermore Denies He Has Changed His Opinion on Business

Consents to Answer Two Queries Which Reveal Present Position

Jessie L. Livermore, former Boston stock market operator, denies that he is planning to conduct any broad market movement or has been approached to do so.

Wall Street has heard rumors recently that Mr. Livermore had turned "bullish" at the behest of financiers.

As a result of the widespread misunderstanding that was created when his confidential message was made public last February, Mr. Livermore has persistently refused to talk for publication since.

In his reply to queries submitted it is apparent that he has no changed his views as to the business outlook, as shown by the following interview:

Q.—Is there any foundation for the report that you are planning to conduct a broad movement along the lines of what occurred in 1921?"

A.—"There is absolutely no basis for the report."

Q.—"Have you any information of any group of bankers or financiers attempting a campaign to broaden the stock market with the idea of inspiring confidence, or do you believe there is any such campaign being planned?"

A.—"I do not know of any such campaign. I have not heard of any such campaign. I do not believe there has been any thought of such a campaign because such a movement would naturally meet with disaster and the banking element are not in the habit of risking their money when basic conditions in the end would bring about severe losses."

In his February opinion Mr. Livermore commented upon the investigation of the Federal Trade Commission ordered by President Coolidge into the cause of the advances in gasoline prices, stating that the investigation marked "the end of the rise in oil stocks and prices."

President Coolidge submitted the Federal Trade Commission report to the Attorney General's office yesterday. [illegible] a result Mr. Livermore's [illegible] was brought to the Street. Since February the Bureau of Mines monthly reports have shown a steady increase in stocks, until as of May 1 the record-breaking figure of 1,6107,786,404 gallons was shown to be on hand.

This confirmation of Livermore's views, as revealed to the Street in Washington dispatches yesterday resulted in enhancement of reports that he had been influenced to turn bullish.

"ARTICLE FOURTEENTH: Whereas my sister Mary E. Sullivan died and I have otherwise provided for my sister Harriet J. Wadsbury, I now [illegible] [illegible] immediate [illegible] my public charitable purposes which in previous [illegible] [11] had provided for in remainder and I do now give all the rest [illegible] of my property of every nature to the City of Boston [illegible] [illegible] a permanent charitable trust fund [illegible] known as the George Robert White Fund and the net income only to be used [illegible] creating works of public utility and beauty for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the City of [illegible] [illegible] my intention that no part of said [illegible] shall [illegible] [illegible] religious, political, educational or any purpose which it shall be the duty of the City in the ordinary course of events to provide.

The control and management of said Fund and the disbursement of the income shall be in the hands of a board of five trustees to consist of the Mayor, who shall be its chairman, the President of the City Council, the City Auditor, the President of the Chamber of Commerce and the President of the Bar Association of the City of Boston. If by the reason of the abolition of any one or more of these offices or the declination or resignation of any one or more of the persons holding them for the time being, a vacancy or vacancies shall occur, I direct that such vacancies shall be filled by the remaining members of the board by the election of the persons whose respective positions and duties shall, in the opinion of the board most nearly correspond therewith. As this is a public charitable gift to the City of Boston, it is my intention that the City shall at all times be officially represented by a majority of the board of trustees charged with its management.

The business of the Fund shall be transacted through the regular departments of the City, viz. the Treasurer, Auditor, Corporation Counsel, etc.; a suitable office or offices for the use of the trustees shall be provided for them by the City in the City Hall or elsewhere, in which shall be kept all books and records of every nature relating to the management of the Fund properly indexed and readily accessible during business hours for the reasonable inspection of all persons, so that all who so desire may have full knowledge of the conduct of the business of the Fund. I direct that said income shall not be anticipated or used beyond the amount actually in hand, but it may be accumulated for any purpose within the scope of the gift, and successive accumulations may be applied to the same object. Any work or works established from the Fund may be improved, extended, enlarged or added to from time to time, but the current expense of the care and maintenance shall be borne by the City. I also direct that no part of said income shall be mingled with other funds or applied in joint undertakings, and that each work established under this gift shall be separate and distinct, and shall always bear in a conspicuous place a suitable inscription identifying it as erected or established from said George Robert White Fund. If for any reason the principal of said Fund shall at any time be impaired, the income shall be allowed to accumulate until such impairment shall have been made good.

Inasmuch as I believe an enlightened public opinion to be the most effective safeguard for the preservation and maintenance of such a charitable fund as this, and the best guide to its effective use, I direct that at least once a year the trustees shall cause to be published in most if not all of the daily newspapers of general circulation in Boston a full and comprehensive report, duly audited and signed and sworn to by at least three of their number, setting forth the receipts, disbursements and investments of the Fund and a copy of this fourteenth article of my will establishing it.

In order to diminish the chance of hasty or unconsidered action in the expenditure of income, I believe that no substantial expenditure should be made for any purpose until it shall have been under consideration by the trustees for at least three months.

As it is probable that said Fund will consist in greater part of real estate centrally situated in the City of Boston which is reasonably sure to increase in value, I urgently recommend that such real estate be not sold for a period of at least one hundred (100) years, that leases of the same (10) shall be subject to revaluations as a basis of rentals every ten (10) years and where necessary shall provide for rebuilding by the lessees, that the real estate shall not be mortgaged and the buildings thereon shall be kept fully insured.

If any clause or provision of the foregoing charitable gift should be found to be invalid in law, it shall not invalidate the gift as a whole but shall so far as possible be construed as an expression of my general intent.

While I think that Boston has now few, if any, superiors in beauty, and in the many privileges it affords to its citizens, yet I believe it has greater possibilities for the future, and there are several public blessings [illegible] afforded by other cities,—such as a zoological garden and handsome buildings therefor, an aquarium, a forum of substantial proportions for public gatherings, etc.—which we do not possess. It is with such things as these in mind that I have established the foregoing trust fund.

I can conceive that pressure might be brought to bear to use the income of this Fund for small and comparatively unimportant needs, which might be easily deserving and technically within the general scope of the Trust as heretofore expressed. A use of it for such purposes to any substantial extent would be contrary to my intention, which is that its income, accumulated if need be for a time long enough to make it sufficient, should [11] be used only for important [illegible] improvements.

I suggest that printed copies, in convenient pamphlet form, of this, the fourteenth article of my will be kept at the office of the trustees of the Fund for free distribution to citizens of Boston.

I request that the trustees named in this article shall annually designate one of their number who shall visit and inspect my lot in Forest Hills Cemetery in the months of April and September of each year, and report to the board any neglect or failure to comply with the provisions of the [illegible] of perpetual care, as well as Article First of this my will in regard to the care of said lot, and it shall be the duty of said trustees to see that such neglect or failure be remedied without delay.

TRUSTEES OF THE GEORGE ROBERT WHITE FUND

Then personally appeared the above named Trustees, who made oath to the foregoing statement being true to the best of their knowledge and belief.

Boston, June 4, 1924. PAUL H. KEATING, Notary Public.

AUDITOR'S CERTIFICATE

We have audited the books and accounts of the GEORGE ROBERT WHITE FUND, for the year ending January 31, 1924. We have ascertained that all income receivable has been accounted for, that all expenditures have been authorized and approved, that all bonds held as investments on January 31, 1924, are recorded, and [illegible] have been produced to us, and that the cash balance of the Fund [illegible] have been confirmed to us by the depositary banks. The real estate held by the Trustees is shown in the accounts of the Fund in accordance with the values stated in the Inventory of the Executors under the will of George Robert White, a certified copy of which was produced to us, and we have ascertained that the buildings thereon are fully insured as required under the will.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing statement of the Fund's accounts correctly summarizes the Trustees transactions for the year ending January 31, 1924, and exhibits the financial condition of the Fund as of that date.

In the expenditure of the net income of the Fund for creating works of public utility and beauty, the Trustees have adopted a policy of establishing health units in various sections of the city in the hope of being able by their operation to better the living conditions and health of the communities in the congested districts.

Conferences have been held with the various agencies and welfare workers of the city in an endeavor to have the policy of the Trustees made beneficial and constructive and also to insure the establishment of the health units in such locations as will best serve "for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the City of Boston."

In conformity therewith agreements have been executed for the erection of the first unit on North Margin Street and Baldwin Place, on the site formerly occupied by the Beth Israel Synagogue, with the addition of the estates on North Margin Street adjoining the same. The building—measuring about 66 feet by 30 feet—is now being erected on a lot of land having an area of about 16,000 sq. ft., thus providing a health unit with accommodations and equipment fully adequate to the requirements of the people of the North End and also an open air park for use in connection therewith. On its completion—probably in September, 1924—the new health unit is to be turned over to the Health Department of the City for its care and maintenance, in accordance with the terms of the will.

It is the present intention of the Trustees to establish the second health unit in East Boston, their decision in this matter having been reached after conferring with the representatives of the various organizations now engaged in health work in the city.

Daniel W. Lane, President of the City Council, served as Trustee to Feb. 4, 1924.

GEORGE E. PHELAN, Manager.

CHICKIE

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

SUDDENLY she put her finger on her lips on the spot where his had touched. She pressed it against her teeth—hard.

Then she [illegible] across the room picked up the letter, spread it out on the bed and with dry, fevered eyes drank anew its distillate of pain.

He was so sure it hadn't mattered much to her, never dreamed that at the end she cared. Why she hadn't called him back. Hadn't even answered his letter!

And this thing that had happened was frightful to [illegible]. She could see that [illegible]. Yes, she remembered [illegible] too many. They were [illegible].

[illegible] I never [illegible]

[illegible] hadn't [illegible]—never mentioning [illegible] leaving her to guess—he told that he and [illegible] Moore [illegible] at the end of the tour a month ago. It might seem hasty to her—but they'd known each other many years—they had been deep friends. And so much happened on the trip—so crowded was their life that the past seemed many years removed.

Their marriage had been planned for the following Spring. But on the homeward journey her mother became ill. Her mother was now dying. So they went at once to Tarrytown on the Hudson and were married there quietly, because the mother wished it.

Did Chickie suppose he had the faintest idea of the tragedy that had overtaken her? Did she suppose he ever counted or feared such an outcome? Now that it was so did she fancy that he was going free? That he wouldn't suffer? Oh—he would—

But, Chickie, listen—don't let us make it any worse—don't make the blunder more awful. It has to be met—we can only do this if we look at it coolly. We've got to. I'll be waiting at 8 o'clock for you. Then we'll arrange it all—Chickie, the worst is really over—in a way it is—It will be easier now—it can be made easy for you—"

She came to that and smiled in terror. The worst was really over! No—but it would be. She knew that—knew it now. Her pulse, thudding like hearts gone wild, whispered it, thundered to her thought the thing that she must do. Like a little girl frightened of the awful dark she shrank from it.

She said to herself slowly and with drawn lips—"Die—going to die—" She looked about the room as though she had never seen it before. The heavy thump-thump at her throat made her breath heave. She said again but more faintly: "Die—"

And she kneeled at the bureau, took the bridal set from its tissues—from the pads of lavender, Jennie had made. She touched the soft fabric; touched the tiny pink and blue flowers. She shut her eyes.

A voice reminded. "We'll arrange it all. The worst is really over. Come at eight!"

But her arms were limp. She kneeled a long while—her eyes closed.

Then, sitting on a chair because she had not strength to stand, she changed her clothes; put on the beautiful silken things. She pressed the palms of her hands together. They were moist and cold; they trembled because of the moaning at her ears.

She tied and untied the pretty ribbons. She looked at her fingers as though they belonged to another. Suddenly there was a tear and another on the pink crepe. She wiped them gently. She said quietly: "Don't cry—No—don't cry at all."

Finally she was ready. Jennie was tapping at the door: "Chickie, dear—why, your dinner is cold—"

"Oh—oh, mother, darling—I'm dining out tonight. Did you forget?" And she called gaily: "You should see me, Jennie, darling—how beautiful I look!"

She was staring at her image, smiling at [illegible]. She went close to the mirror, her open hands against against the glass, drinking the terror from her eyes; fighting the heat that brought such faintness to her brain.

Oh—her eyes were gray and beautiful above the tender thing that was her chin. There was a flush of red staining her throat; no color marked the pearl white of her face. She said dimly: "Well—" and moved from the bureau.

And with a little swift rush ran to those two waiting in the living room. She stood behind Jonathan's chair. The trembling went from her hands into her veins.

It seemed to her that she was falling—in a moment with a little soft cry she would sink in the great, kind arms, she would sink against his knees—oh, she would wind her hands about him—make him hold her there—he would—

She laughed: "Jonathan—Johnathan, dearest—" Her cheek was soft on his. She patted it, twined the old straggly mustache—

Then she kissed her mother. Then she said lightly, "Little Jennie—so sweet she is!" And tears of gladness ran to Jennie's eyes.

At the door she called back—"I won't be in till late, perhaps—sleep, ole dear!"

Something in that caught her heart as though it tore and bled. She ran back to her room—looking for her purse. And kissed them both again and fixed the old, loved faces in her mind.

She rode down to Park street and transferred. Her plan was clear. Once when the days were sweet they had gone to Atlantic avenue. One noontime it was. And they ate their lunch there.

A fisherman talking with Barry said the tide was swift and deep. What dropped there was never found. An Italian had stumbled from a pier. A friend saw the body fall. It was never seen again.

That was the way. No one would know. Drop into the heavy waters. Not even God could tell.

But it was dark now. Where were the boats, all blue and white, bobbing on the wave—shining in the sun?

Before her was the stone arch of a pier. Through this she saw the harbor—black, terrible; saw the flashing lights of passing craft, the restless spirit of the water. She turned her head.

But to the left was a round building—a massive thing, painted red, like old blood. She remembered. The gas works, but now it had a grim, forbidding look—an outpost of mortality.

She lowered her head, hurrying through the street. It was black; lumber piled on either side. Dim lights glimmed like the eyes of ancient owls. The terror within her made her knees weak.

She came to the wooden landing. She walked to the edge and looked down at the great round piers. She swayed and darted back, appalled. "No—God—oh, no—"

The light of a warship swept in a wide, revealing arc. Lights across the harbor twinkled like fat, tiny stars. She crept back and hid against a pile of lumber. She said to herself: "I can't—Oh, God—God—"

Then she said—"Yes—now—quick—" and started to run, and couldn't.

She sat down. She wiped the moisture from her neck. She measured the distance to the waters. Ten feet at the landing there—at her side was a great horizontal beam. It stretched between vertical shafts. It was nearer to the water. It would be easy to wrap her hands about that—let herself down easily.

She knelt. She slipped her hands under and they were wedged against the planks. She could do it! From here—Yes.

"No—no—go back—" The water was so dark—it looked so cold—"

The wind sank cold about her—sank like the hand of death. She felt her life going—felt herself already dead. Suddenly she gripped the beam. She let herself down. Her feet were in the water. The wind loosened her hair. Now—let go! only a moment—

The water lapped [illegible] at her feet. The night was dark. And she was letting herself down.

Her heart hammered like a mad thing; it pumped terror through her veins—made her neck tight. She could hear her own pulses in their frantic thump-thump. She looked down at the water and saw death. And the fear of it, convulsive and agonized, laid hold on her. She clung piteously to the beam.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THINGS have [illegible] for me of [illegible] to start something. Unless my hunch about the Human Heart is all wrong, the following should be good for at least Six Weeks War. But read it yourself.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"I believe that most of the evils in this country is due to the fact that children are reared in the homes and taught in the schools by women. School teaching is a man's job that women have been trying to do for a long time, and they have fallen down on it something terrible.

"Now, with due respect for the really good, conscientious women who try to do what is right, I will say this, women are no good when it comes to rearing children. They are too soft—not firm enough.

"Fathers may be a bit severe at times, but it's best in the long run. And that's the trouble today—fathers are too busy grabbing dollars and playing golf to have any time to spare for rearing the children.

"So it's up to mother and she's made a mess of it so far. Then how can a woman inspire a child, anyway? Women, as a rule, are the 'double cross'—full of deceit and selfishness.

"All the crime in the country today reflects on the women.

"Go down to the slums in any city and you will find all the women, gamblers, thugs, etc., yapping about their 'angel mothers'—but they are all there because their mothers didn't rear them right. On the other hand, when you meet an upright, honorable man you will always hear him speak with pride and reverence of how his father reared him.

"Let the men rear the children! Speaking for myself, I don't know of anything else I'd rather do if I had the time. And I would not think it an unmanly job either.

"Hoping you will let me down easy, I remain, sincerely,

'JUNGLE MAN.'

Let you down easy? Not I. Duck while the ducking's good, son, for here I come. You refer with feeling to the man-reared child and his superior quality. Let me advise you that there ain't no such animal as a man-reared child.

What with incubators, artificial feeding and washing machines, I see no good reason why it shouldn't be done, but I repeat it isn't done.

If you think that Papa snoozing in his chair after dinner is an 'inspiration' to Willie you've got another think coming. Or Papa raising Cain because supper's late. . . . or boasting about how he sassed the Traffic Cop or smuggled in a little bootleg or "put over a good deal on the simp." If there's not an awful lot of Moral Uplift and Inspiration for little Willie in [illegible]

[illegible]

It's safe to say [illegible] the medals for "lying, deceit and selfishness" on Mother. I always thought that when it came to telling a really artistic, pole-proof, well planned lie, Father had the whole human race skinned.

Whether you like it or not, the fact remains that the Mothers rear the children with mighty little help from the dads, and they've managed to maintain a pretty fair average so far.

You may be a Jungle Man, but I'll bet you're a bachelor. Hop back to your jungle, Man—you've pulled a boner!

MARTHA LEE'S RADIO CHATS ON COOKING

I [illegible]

[illegible] is made by beating [illegible] of butter to a cream and gradually beating into this, ¼ pound of [illegible] a tablespoon of grated onion, 1 teaspoon of [illegible] 1 tablespoon of tomato catsup, ½ of a chili pepper chopped very fine and a teaspoon of fine chopped parsley.

[illegible] turn out of the cup and serve with toasted crackers or pulled bread or with lettuce and French dressing.

Cheese sticks are also nice to serve with fresh green salads and may be made either with ½ inch wide strips of whole wheat or graham [illegible] ounces of cheese and a dash of paprika and beat into ¼ cup of butter which has been creamed [illegible]

[illegible]

TOAST—Any kind of bread can be used for this toast. It is best made with brown bread, toasted. While it is being toasted melt 1 tablespoons (even) of butter and stir into it 1½ level tablespoons of flour and ¼ teaspoon each of salt and paprika.

When blended stir in ¾ cup of rich milk, simmer until it boils, then set it over hot water and stir in ½ or ¾ cup of grated cheese. Stir until the cheese is melted and pour over the toast. A slice of crisp bacon can be added to each slice of toast when serving.

FRENCH LAMB CHOPS—Select four rib chops and trim the meat from the bones. Cook four [illegible] powdered bacon and then in soft bread crumbs (sifted).

Broil the chops in your broiler (well oiled), leaving them a little under done. Have ready a cup of cooked peas hot and buttered and about 1½ pints of mashed potato. Make a mound of potato on a pyrex platter, set the chops against this and arrange the rest of the potato around them. Beat the yolk of [illegible] the potato [illegible] brown the edges of the potato and make it all hot. Serve on the platter with paper frills on the ends of the chop bones and the [illegible] between the chops and potato. This much will serve two or four people.

SPANISH VEAL BALLS—[illegible] about 1½ pounds of veal, after you have removed the skin, and ¼ cup of fat salt pork or bacon very fine, and add ½ cup of fine soft bread crumbs, 1 egg well beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1½ cups cooked tomatoes, [illegible] green or red pepper chopped fine.

Mix and shape into balls with hands. Make 5 or 6 balls. Then [illegible] Heat [illegible] into the casserole.

Add the salt and pepper [illegible] pepper, put in the veal balls, rinse out the frying pan with [illegible] spoonful of the tomato [illegible] and pour into the casserole. Cover and let cook in a moderate oven [illegible] an hour or more.

Serve from the casserole, or from a platter if preferred, with a piece of parsley on the top of each ball. Beef may be prepared in the same way.

Now for a pie which I know you will find delicious.

RHUBARB PIE—Beat 1 egg and add 1 cup of sugar, ¼ teaspoon of salt, 2 common crackers, rolled fine, and 1 cup of sliced rhubarb. Turn into the plate lined [illegible] brush over the edge of the undercrust with cold water.

Lay the strips across the filling parallel, one to another, then lay strips across the filling at right angles to these, lattice fashion [illegible] bake about ½ hour.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

What to Say—

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Kindly tell me what is the proper thing to say after receiving an introduction to a gentleman or lady?

2. Upon leaving them either in home, street or automobile?

3. Also is it proper to shake hands after being introduced?

4. Upon leaving a home of a new acquaintance on whom you are calling, what should you say?

5. In placing the silverware should you [illegible] to farthest away [illegible] then the fork and so on.

L. S. R.

"HOW do you do?"

2. "Good-bye. I am very glad to have met you." If you wish, you may add, "I hope that I shall see you again some time"—or "soon," if you wish.

3. It is proper. It is a question of choice, as I have often explained in my column.

4. "Good-bye. I have enjoyed so much seeing you today. Do come to see me soon—won't you? I am looking [illegible] family share my pleasure in knowing you."

5. You place the forks on the left [illegible] knives and spoons to the right side. The number on each side depends, of course, upon the courses. On the left, nearest the plate, place the salad fork, and farther away from the plate the meat fork. On the right, nearest the plate, place the meat knife, and next to it, farthest from the plate, place the soup spoon. This, of course, is for a simple [illegible] course dinner; soup [illegible] salad, the spoon or fork for [illegible] for desert is brought in after salad course has been removed.

Introducing His Fiancee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How should a young man introduce his sweetheart—

(1) [illegible]

(2) [illegible]

(3) To [illegible]

HE "introduces" his brother to his sweetheart, not his sweetheart to his brother. (A gentleman is always introduced to a lady.) He should say, "Mary, may I present my brother?" or, "Mary, this is Jack."

(2) Introduce male friends to her by saying, "Mary, may I present Mr. Brown?"

(3) Introduce her to your aunt by mentioning the aunt's name first. "Aunt Janes, this is Miss [illegible]."

Quickly I drew Peter aside. I felt that there were things I must talk over with him.

"Peter, I must talk to you alone and at once," I whispered, [illegible] difficulties the Shipping Corporation was experiencing in getting [illegible]

"Not much chance here," Peter [illegible]

"I've made the suggestion that [illegible] Harrison and Mrs. [illegible] the proposition."

Then turning to me with the cynical smile which always verges on the whimsical and often turns to a thing of complete boyish sweetness, Peter murmured [illegible]

"That wasn't what I wanted to talk over with you," I smiled. "When you spoke of not being able to get the South American trade I had a flash of [illegible]

"Child alive, you have an imagination!" chuckled Peter.

"I'm not imagining. I'm making deductions. I'm not able to [illegible] but it told [illegible]

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner.

Dr. Mahoney.

The milk of the cow [illegible] the basis of all the patent foods that are prescribed by a majority of [illegible]. But cow's milk in its raw state is not good food for the infant. It contains too much protein content.

To bring cow's milk more nearly to the consistency of mother's milk, it must be modified. The manner of modifying cow's milk for the infant is roughly as follows:

To 18 ounces of cow's milk are added 12 ounces of barley water which reduces the protein content. Then a tablespoonful of sugar of milk and a pinch of salt are added.

Of course the age of the child, its health and other factors enter into the formula that should be followed but the above is a general idea of how the milk of the cow must be modified.

One thing of utmost importance, particularly as we are now approaching hot weather, is the fact that all these ingredients must be kept cold and the milk must be mixed in utensils that are thoroughly sterilized.

The milk, once it is mixed, or before it is mixed, should never be kept at the temperature of the atmosphere. It should always be kept on ice and only heated just before feeding to the baby.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

What is the correct weight for a girl of sixteen years and 5 feet 10 inches tall? Could you tell what would cause pains in the arms and legs a few days after taking gymnasium exercises? I. M. H.

According to the table of height and weight, you should weigh [illegible] pounds. At your age, unless you are exceptionally developed, this would be more or less of an approximation. The pains to which you refer are undoubtedly muscular, due to your gymnasium work.

How much cod liver oil should I give my eight-year-old boy? Is there any form of oil except the raw liquid, which is offensive to the stomach? F. J. O.

There are on the market a number of very good palatable preparations containing cod liver oil. I would advise you to consult your family physician.

About a week ago I broke my arm in two places below the elbow and wrist. I had it set and it is doing well at present. How long will it be before I am able to work with it? Will it be as strong as ever at the break? A. B.

The doctor who is taking care of you will advise you about returning to work. There is no reason why your arm should not be as strong as ever.

Can you tell me if diabetes is a blood or kidney disease? J. J. Roxbury.

Diabetes is neither a disease of the kidneys nor the blood. It is thought to be due to degenerative changes in the pancreas.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

A CHIROPODIST has advertised that for fifty cents he will make your feet smile. You can probably pay him a dollar and a half and get them to laugh out loud.

THERE'S nothing a pedestrian likes better than to have his corns giggle.

IT'S a great satisfaction to know of a chiropodist who can make your feet joke with you.

WE'LL no doubt go to the seashore and see thousands of others walking along the beach with a broad grin on each foot.

YOUR roommate's feet may be laughing right now, only he wears such loud socks that you can't hear them chuckle.

ANY man is lucky if he has ten toes that are so happy they go into convulsions.

FOR years we've been laughing up our sleeves. [illegible] toes are beginning to laugh [illegible] socks.

IF our little toes isn't giggling, maybe it's because you're choking it to death with a corn plaster.

YOU can't expect a bunion to laugh if you haven't [illegible].

YOU should be barefooted and let your feet enjoy the scenery. No callous, no matter how hardened it may be, likes to be locked up all day in a pair of shoes.

THE corn hurts you because it has no other way of letting you know it wants to get out.

YOUR calluses may have an easy life, but think what the ones who belong to a postman have to go through.

SO don't put it off any longer, go see your chiropodist today. It will only cost you fifty cents and you owe your feet a little entertainment.

3 MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

ON the transcontinental railway from Valparaiso to Buenos Aires, among the foothills of the Andes Mountains, you will find the city of Mendoza. It is a thriving metropolis of about 100,000 souls, bright with theatres, cafes, motion picture palaces and other features of civilization, and full of prosperous-looking people in fashionable attire.

Look on the map of the Argentine Republic, but unless you have a modern atlas you may not find it at all, for Mendoza is a boom town.

The greatness of this city, which sprang from nothing to bigness in twelve or fifteen years, is due not to gold or silver, copper or steel, but to wine.

Mendoza produces a variety of wines in flavor which are popular all over South America and which were coming upon the American market when prohibition hit the United States. The wine industry in the Argentine is only about twenty years old.

Mendoza has the good fortune of enjoying a climate as balmy as that of Southern France or California. A few experiments in making wine by farmers outside the village of Mendoza attracted wide attention and vineyards were planted on a large scale. Extremely high tariffs made French wines tremendously expensive in the Argentine and the domestic wine quickly became popular, particularly as it had a flavor which equalled that of France.

The city grew by leaps and bounds. Real estate jumped in value the way it does in American boom towns. Many of the original inhabitants became rich speculating in town lots and vineyards. Everybody bought automobiles. The city built good roads within its limits but there was no co-operation from the State and outside the city the roads were abominable. A trip out to any of the vineyards was a dust bath. The sight of rich Mendozans motoring up one main street and down the other by the hour was common. The Mendoza Chamber of Commerce began a campaign to make all transcontinental tourists get off the train and spend a day in the city, and good hotels soon went up.

As the Argentine state railroad which meets the Chilian road at the frontier is wide gauge, the compartments on the sleeping cars are as wide as bedrooms in some modern hotels. This made it more of a job to get tourists to stop off, but Mendoza is worth seeing and the town boosters accomplished the feat.

Asks for House

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if one of your readers would have a little house somewhere with a yard I could either rent or buy with a small amount down? It wouldn't matter if it is out of repair, as my husband is a painter and handy and willing to fix up. Would go anywhere within fifteen miles of Boston. I have a tan broadcloth coat and several summer dresses for a girl eight or nine years I would be glad to send someone if you will give me an address.

Thank you for the clothing. We have sent you the address of Mrs. [illegible], whose husband is in hospital and who has five little girls. If we hear of a house we will let you know.

Infants' Clothes Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

I have lived in Lynn a very short time, read the American every night and certainly think you are doing wonders. I have some infants' things, coat, sweater, stockings, dresses and other things my baby has outgrown. Of course, they are not new, but some one can get some use out of them. If you will send me an address I will gladly mail them to her.

MRS. L. L. C.

Thank you for your kind words. We think we are doing [illegible] when we are unable to answer all appeals. We are sending the address of Mrs. [illegible], whose husband is out of work, is deluged with bills and expecting a new arrival.

Personal Service

Excellent values in automobile tires may be obtained with comparatively little seeking. But to secure excellent values, and valuable personal service besides, is difficult unless you shop through the columns below.

THOSE WHO NEED NEED NOT

Waste time and energy shopping all over town. Up-to-date folks know that it is much better to shop The American's classified way.

"increase due to American"

We have been using the Evening American for some time, but the business our advertisement in your paper of May 9th brought was certainly a surprise.

In spite of poor weather and particularly bad rain storms we noticed not only an increase in our sales, but also a number of people along Columbus Avenue buying tires. This we know was due to advertising that appeared in the Boston Evening American.

Motorists Who Can't Read

New Peril of the Highways

How Mr. Amadeo de Donato comes to be in possession of a Massachusetts license to operate a motorcar will puzzle other citizens just as it mystifies Judge Charles J. Brown of the East Boston Court.

The complaint upon which de Donato was arraigned in Judge Brown's court was "operating an automobile in such a manner as to endanger the lives of others."

Found guilty, he was fined $50.

"This man," Judge Brown said, "is not a citizen. It appears that HE CAN NEITHER READ NOR WRITE. And yet he is in possession of a license bearing his address and his own name. It is beyond me to understand how these things are done."

How DO illiterate motorists get away with it?

Why are they not discovered and brought to book the first time they fail to observe a traffic sign?

One might also ask how they get their licenses, but probably that can be done by impersonation; we can readily understand that a personal investigation of every motorist registered in Massachusetts would call for an army of investigators and cost a fortune.

Frank Goodwin, who has shown himself an intelligent as well as a brave and fearless enforcer of the traffic laws, may be able to devise a way to handle the motorist who cannot read.

Not Important, but Mighty Interesting

No Monkey Could Do This

Among those contending for honors in the Olympic games the spectators will see this young acrobat. Just at present he is turning a back somersault, seizing his legs with his hands to pull himself over. One second after this photograph was snapped, he had landed on his feet, smiling. He can do this twenty times and not lose his breath.

You may say, and truly, "What of it? Human beings don't NEED to turn back somersaults. To do this 'stunt' a thousand times wouldn't be as useful as planting one hill of beans, or even one radish."

True, but don't forget wise old Voltaire's saying:

"Chose tres-necessaire, le superflu," which means "a thing very necessary, the SUPERFLUOUS."

Often the superfluous, or UNNECESSARY, is really the very NECESSARY thing.

In order that others may do a thing moderately well, it is necessary for somebody to do it EXTRAORDINARILY well. This little boy turning a back somersault at a height from the ground that shows extraordinary agility, is not doing anything extremely USEFUL, but he is demonstrating several things.

He proves what would interest our Christian Science friends, the "power of mind over matter." The energy in that boy's BRAIN makes his body do whatever he wants it to do.

It is not "natural" for a human being to leap up into the air, turn completely around in the air and land safely, facing the same way as when the backward somersault began.

Monkeys are ahead of us in agility. They can swing from tree to tree, and move so quickly our eyes can hardly follow. Their sight is better than ours. But THEIR BODIES CONTROL THEM, whereas we human beings, after a million years of slow evolution and struggle, have reached the point where we, our brains, CONTROL OUR BODIES.

"Mind over matter," as Mrs. Stetson would say, is what this boy tumbler represents. Therefore, he interests you.

By the way, for an average healthy person under twenty years of age, it isn't hard to do a back somersault of the average kind, although it is difficult to do it as well as this boy does it. The late Oliver Belmont learned to turn back somersaults when he was nearly forty years old, just to demonstrate that he hadn't lost the agility and strength built up when he was a cadet at Annapolis.

When you begin learning, have a strong belt or rope around your waist, with a rope attached to each side. Let friends hold the rope on either side when you first practise a somersault. As you turn over backward, clap your hands against the back of your thighs smartly to add to your "whirl." Before you know it you will be turning back somersaults, and possess a neat accomplishment with which to entertain your friends.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

Helen Rowland

WHEN she married him, she had the "Bride's Complex."

She thought him the only flawless, Perfect Being in the world—the one Priceless Paragon that ever stood under a Marguerite wedding-bell or walked up the flower-strewn aisle!

• • •

And he IS a good husband.

• • •

He adores her—and any woman who is married to an egotist or a human ice-chest would think that enough.

• • •

He is the soul of loyalty—and would sooner think of striking her than of aiming a blow at her vanity by flirting with another woman.

• • •

He comes home cheerfully and promptly every evening—and she never has to coax him or bully him to put up the curtains, or run the lawn mower, or clean the car, or do any of those little masculine chores in which he seems to delight.

• • •

He has no bad habits, no clubs, no complexes and no obsessions.

• • •

And lots of us women, who are married to clubmen, or heart-collectors, or grouches, or scofflaws, or golf fiends, or radiomaniacs, would call her thrice-blessed!

• • •

And yet—he has one foot-of-clay!

• • •

And, little by little, he is losing her love—a PENNY'S worth at a time. For you can't buy love with dollars—but you can SELL it for pennies!

• • •

For this almost-perfect husband is closer than an upper berth, and tighter than a last year's bathing suit.

• • •

And he has made a beggar of her!

• • •

For when she buys a dinner she never has a penny left over for that forgotten something which would turn it from a dinner into a "treat."

• • •

And when she needs a new coat she receives the exact price of the coat—plus her car fare.

• • •

She does not know how it feels to buy anything—just because she WANTS it. And sometimes, when she has miscalculated, she is beginning to tell little white lies, rather than face his frown of disapproval. And it's SO humiliating!

• • •

And some day I expect to walk into a millinery shop and to see her trip forth to sell me a hat—with the bright smile of FREEDOM on her face.

• • •

Because when you make a beggar and a liar of a woman she not only loses her SELF-respect—but she loses her respect for YOU.

• • •

And love is such a tender, delicate, frail thing that it cannot stand, except upon the firm, strong, solid ground of RESPECT.

Yet, alas — the penny-foolish husband doesn't know that he is selling the Kohinoor for a string of glass beads!

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Mother of Six in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a poor woman with six children and they all need clothes very bad. My husband has been out of work a long time. He is working now, but it will take a long time to pay up what we owe as his pay is small and it takes a lot for rent and food for us. The girls' ages are 14, 7 and 3 and the boys are 8 and 5. I also have a baby girl, 7 months old, who needs clothing very much. The girls, 14 and 7, need things and if we were lucky enough to get any boys' things we would be very thankful.

MRS. M. T.

Offers Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a baby carriage and a few little clothes. Also two dresses, two warm petticoats and other articles of wearing apparel for a little girl about four years old. Will have larger things next week as I am collecting from my neighbors for your cause. I will give these things to the person you send.

MRS. H. M. M.

Thank you. We think you are an old friend as we recognize your name. We have asked Mrs. J. A. S., the mother of eight little ones, to call for your things.

Husband Paralyzed

Editor Helping Hand:

I work in a shoe shop and support myself, husband and four children, but cannot make both ends meet. My husband had a shock about two years ago and is paralyzed on one side so cannot do a thing towards my support. The children are one boy, 8 years old, and three girls, 11, 4 and 2. I wonder if any of the readers have any clothes that would fit the boy as he is destitute. Also anything for the girls would be more than appreciated. My wages allow me only to pay the living expenses and anything in the line of clothing will be more than acceptable to me. I can mend and make over most anything.

MRS. J. W. 2.

Clothes for Girls

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a baby's summer coat and winter coat, and children's shoes, sizes 7, 8 and 9, and a pair of ladies' shoes, size 8, and other little things. Please send me the address of some one who could make use of these things.

A. A.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. W. H. who has five little girls, the oldest only five.

Invalid Nine Years

Editor Helping Hand:

A woman, an invalid for nine years, unable to pay big wages, needs some one to stay with her. A district nurse bathes her and she requires little for an invalid. No fancy cooking or housework needed. The husband, although 73, works and helps in the home besides. Who wants a home and will do a great charity by going there? They are American people. I help all I can as she is an aunt by marriage.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

SOME authors deal in tragedies, in stories dark and gloomy; they write of all the lands and seas, but paint none bright and bloomy. Great men have pictured dismal days in never-dying fiction; they show life's fiercest, hardest phase in easy, faultless diction. The tale I choose has sunny days and hearts to match the weather, and simple folks with simple ways who journey on together. Though sometimes they, like all, must know dark days of tears and fasting, the author mitigates their woe, their trials are not lasting. So when, to fill an idle hour, I read a noted story, I do not take one grim and dour whose episodes are gory. The book that most appeals to me must come with brightness, lending to fiction or philosophy the grace of happy ending.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The most difficult thing in life is to know yourself.

• • •

Slow seems their speed whose thoughts before them run.

• • •

Talent is the capacity of doing anything that depends on application and industry, and it is a voluntary power, while genius is involuntary.

• • •

A good word is an easy obligation, but not to speak ill requires only our silence, which costs us nothing.

• • •

There is only one religion, though there are a hundred versions of it.

• • •

There is no tricks in plain simple faith.

• • •

The modern majesty consists in work. What a man can do is his greatest ornament, and he always consults his dignity by doing it.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON CALL OF BLOOD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

HE DID not like music, nor art, nor books. He read slowly and with difficulty.

His wife was fond of all these things, but he had no interest in the house except to oil his boots and look over his fishing tackle.

So, when the Spring came, with it came a great uneasiness, a desire to be away somewhere in the vast distances and in the wild woods.

For he loved all the living things that crept and scurried and flew in the wild outdoors. He could tell one kind of insect from another; he knew if a bird lived on the fruit of the land or on vermin; he knew hickory from oak, and the best fishing places where the bass lie and the pools where the trout jump.

So he was lonely in the city and the sight of the multitude irked him, and when the Spring came it brought with it a great homesickness.

He longed to be away, and, when he had fixed his boots and rough jacket and put them on, he went away whistling to the north woods happy at what was before him and no less glad for what was behind him.

Before him were the still places; behind him the crowded streets and families, one upon another, in apartment houses.

He loved his kind but as the Indian loved his kind; the sort of man you can keep still with and sit all evening by a fire in the open and smoke tobacco that you have cut out of a plug. He scorned tobacco that came made in packages. He scorned cigars and other pieces of tobacco that you smoke in other places than in a pipe or in a cigarette you roll yourself. Two sucks of the latter were worth more than forty otherwise.

He valued tobacco merely as the scent of humankind. A man should smell of tobacco just as a woman should smell not at all or of soap.

He liked cooking, but it was beans and sowbelly that he cooked for himself over the open fire. He scorned fancy food.

He liked cleanliness, but the cleanliness of the open, bathing in water where you had to brush the ice from the surface and rubbing down with a coarse towel, not the cleanliness of the bathroom.

So he went away whistling into the north woods. He had not spoken much in the city. He was going where they did not speak much at all.

He went away to the north woods because they called him by a thousand tongues we could not hear. He left the city because it repelled him in a thousand ways we could not feel.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON "THE BAD BOYS"

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

THE chemists are becoming the "bad boys" in Old Mother Nature's school. They are not bad through idleness, nor through love of mischief, but because they are too impatient and critical for the old lady. They refuse to stick to her antiquated text books, and to be limited by her annoying restrictions. They are extremely inquisitive, and poke into her cupboards and closets, and often discover things which she seems desirous to keep both out of sight and out of use.

Some of these busybodies say that they can handle nature's things better than she can, and use them more economically. In fact, lack of efficiency is one of their chief complaints against their ancient mistress, whom they accuse of great wastefulness and unprogressiveness.

The latest revolt of these ambitious and unruly spirits is against the Old Mother's dietary. They want to provide their own food, and in unlimited quantities; at least they don't want her to ration it. "Synthetic food" is their ideal, stamped "made in the laboratory" as a guarantee of the uniformity, so dear to this levelling age.

The chemists admit that there seems to be no way of getting around dependence upon the sun's radiation for the energy essential to produce food for man, but they claim that Nature is outrageously wasteful in utilizing this energy.

"Agriculture," says Dr. Carl Alsberg, who directs food research at Stanford University, "is very inefficient when measured in terms of the proportion of the total solar radiation streaming upon the crop area that it renders available to man. From man's point of view the crop plant is inefficient both because it works only a part of the year, and because a portion of the energy it stores up is in a form not directly available to him as food. In the process of living and maintaining itself the plant dissipates a large part of the energy it acquires from the sun and this is not recovered in the crop."

The plant, from its point of view, might reply: "Well, that's pretty cool! So you want me to work with never a moment's rest, while you do no work that you can avoid, and you would also starve me in order to get all the product of my work for yourself! But, if you make me kill myself where will you be!"

"Oh, no matter," says the chemist. "When we have made a few more syntheses we may have no use for you at all. It would be foolish for us to continue this wasteful process of first letting you use a lot of food energy for yourself, which you throw away on such things as gaudy flowers and useless perfumes; and next, feeding you to cattle and sheep, only to recover perhaps as little as two per cent of the original energy from steaks and chops. Besides, you only utilize a very few of the light waves, while we are aiming to use nearly all of them, and when we succeed as we have good hopes of doing, we shall call upon you for nothing, except possibly a few of your flavors for dessert."

Use of Firearms

Editor American:

In a recent issue of the American there appeared an article by Dr. Frank Crane regarding the open sale of firearms and deadly weapons. There are many points in the Doctor's article with which I strongly disagree. Although it may seem audacious for me to criticise such an able and accomplished writer as Dr. Crane, yet in this instance I cannot help doing so.

Dr. Crane says "That the owner of a revolver is a potential murderer." Why, may I ask, is the owner of a revolver a potential murderer any more than the owner of a razor? Murders are committed with razors, therefore the owner of a razor is a potential murderer. Pass a law prohibiting the sale of razors, therefore no more murders by razors.

Doctors give medicines which in overdoses are poisonous, therefore no more doctors no more murders by poisons. Is this logic?

Our fathers who founded this government were farseeing men who probably saw that there would be a lot of reformers and "antis." They, the founders of our constitution, undertook to impose restraints upon the government in the hope and belief that citizens thus secured in their rights and privileges would be free men.

We were originally a nation of riflemen, and the ability to shoot straight has stood us in good stead many times when an insult to the flag had to be answered with hot lead. We ought to be proud of our heritage.

Were I a man of great wealth and influence, I would do all in my power to establish a rifle and revolver club in every high school in the country. I would make it necessary that every policeman, deputy sheriff, and postal clerk practice with their pistol or revolver until they were proficient in its use, so that when an exchange of shots with thugs became necessary, the policemen would not be the victims, as they are, about nine times out of ten.

I would fight with every resource available, any law that would tend to take away my right to protect and defend at all times myself and those I hold dear, against thugs and outlaws.

DR. H. Y. HIGHT.
